TEST BAN

Will Senate Balk?

WASHINGTON (AP)—An uncertain reception in the U.S. Senate awaits a nuclear test ban treaty that American sources say is all but completed in Moscow.

State Secretary Dean Rusk and disarmament agency Director William C. Foster sought to blaze a path for the treaty Tuesday by showing a draft of the proposed agreement to the Senate foreign relations committee.

Afterward, committee Chairman J. William Fulbright, Arkansas Democrat, said it was possible the Senate would approve it this session but declined to go so far as to predict that would happen.

Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois would only predict that the treaty would set off lively debate.

NO MEMBER COMMITTED

After the briefing by Rusk and Foster, Fulbright made these points:

1. No committee member opposed the limited test ban during the closed session, but no member had committed himself to support the treaty nor had Rusk requested this.

2. The test ban "is not yet final." U.S. negotiator W. Averell Harriman has yet to initial it—certifying what the negotiators agreed to—and then it must be brought to Washington for governmental consideration before formal signing.

3. After Harriman initials the agreement, the committee expects to have an opportunity to study it for some days before the signing.

4. Then—if the consultations with the senators and among interested Washington federal agencies favor the draft—arrangements will be completed for a formal signing.

'France Won't Quit'

PARIS (Reuters)—The Gaullist newspaper La Nation says France would continue nuclear testing even if the present Moscow talks among the United States, Britain and Russia lead to a partial test ban.

The Nation says: "France rejoices, of course, with all humanity, at all which can contribute to the detente and peace. However, an agreement to which she is not a party does not concern her."

"As the two giants have carried out the innumerable and even superfluous tests of which one is aware, France cannot stop here at a word of command."

"The first reason for this is that she takes orders from nobody. The second is that she does not intend to build a force capable of destroying the population of two or three worlds."

"France simply wants to possess the arm of the century, and thus no doubt enable a Europe eventually joined by Britain to possess it also."

Treaty Ready

(Times News Services)
MOSCOW — An East-West treaty to outlaw nuclear tests above the ground was reported completed today and probably will be initiated Thursday.

Efforts to get the agreement today apparently were held up by prolonged discussions over the non-aggression pact wanted by the Russians but which cannot be negotiated by the British and U.S. delegations here.

Earlier, Premier Nikita Khrushchev said a "radical turn toward a better international climate" could result from signing the agreement.

But Khrushchev, as quoted by the Soviet news agency Tass, again tied the test ban closely to a non-aggression pact between NATO and the Communist bloc, although he did not specifically say the world could not have one without the other.

The premier's views were in a letter to the heads of state of the 30 African countries which took part in the Addis Ababa conference in May.

Sideswiping a diesel engine two miles from Newark, N.J., sides were torn off three passenger cars of Port Authority Trans Hudson line train from New York early today. Two passengers were killed and 28 others injured. The diesel, with 10 cars coupled behind, was stopped on a spur track but stuck out into the path of the main line, police reported. (AP Wirephoto)

FROM WARD

Streetwalker Accepted Deal

LONDON (UPI)—A bleached blonde streetwalker testified today that Dr. Stephen Ward picked her up one night in his white sports car and told her he could introduce her to a better class of people.

Eight minutes later she had accepted Ward's proposition, she said, and was installed in the bedroom of his apartment.

The testimony was offered at Ward's morals trial by Vicki Barrett, 20, who has a police record as a convicted prostitute.

Vicki and other witnesses at today's session of the trial of the society osteopath and artist told a sordid story of the goings-on at his flat and of the diversions sought by some members of his social set.

Another prosecution witness testified that police threatened to take her young sister and her baby from her unless she provided evidence against Ward.

Margaret (Ronna) Ricardo, an admitted prostitute, repeated her assertion—first made near the close of Tuesday's session—that she lied on the stand at Ward's preliminary hearing and in a statement to the police because of police pressure.

GOING TO CLUB

Miss Barrett testified that she was on her way to a club shortly after midnight, one night when Ward's white Jaguar slipped up beside her and he stepped out.

"He asked if I would like to go to a party," she said. "I said 'No, I don't like parties.' He said it wasn't a party. He had just got a few friends with their wives and girl friends and he wanted a girl to have conversation with."

"He said he would give me some money if I stayed a few hours."

After being assured he was interested only in conversation, she said, she got into his car but that "as we were driving to his flat he told what he wanted me to do."

"What was that?" asked prosecutor Mervyn Griffith-Jones.

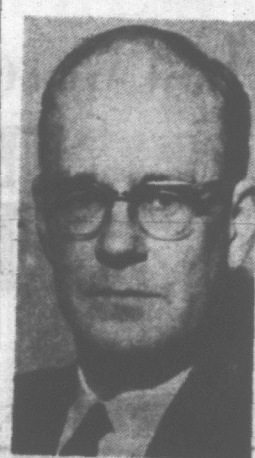

"He said he had a man in the flat who wanted to go with me."

Two Victorians Get Jail Terms

REGINA (CP)—Wayne Marshall Robertson, 28, of Victoria, was sentenced to three years in penitentiary and John Daniel Jones, 26, also of Victoria, was sentenced to two years Tuesday for breaking into a vault at a Regina farm equipment dealer's shop July 15 and stealing $85.

Robertson also received six months concurrent for being in possession of a wallet, identification papers and travellers' cheques belonging to a man in Lebanon, Ind.

FULL REPORT REQUESTED ON INSECTICIDE DEATH

"... must reduce danger"

Health Minister Eric Martin has asked for a full report on the recent death of a B.C. girl who drank insecticide.

The matter is being investigated by deputy health minister Dr. J. A. Taylor.

Mr. Martin said he would also talk to Agriculture Minister Frank Richter about the dangers of insecticides and weed killers which have become this year a matter of major concern across the North American continent.

While control and regulation might be the responsibility of the federal government, Mr. Martin said, "We will see if it isn't possible to cut down on the dangers."

A two-year-old Terrace girl died after drinking insecticide two weeks ago.

ART SHOW MUST CLOSE

LONDON (Reuters)—The local Holborn borough council has ordered the directors of a London art gallery to close vice defendant Dr. Ward's portrait exhibition.

The gallery, which is a girl. He said the man would give him the money."

The prosecutor then asked what Ward would do with the money, and Vicki said Ward had told her that better clothes and a better address meant better clients.

Full Investigation Urged On Problems of the Aged

OTTAWA (CP)—The Senate was urged Tuesday to launch a study of the aged in Canada comparable with its penetrating examination of unemployment.

David Croft (L-Ontario) said it was time for an examination in depth of the whole aspect of problems of the aged and aging. His speech launched debate on the subject in the upper chamber. He suggested that a small staff lay the ground work for the 20-member special committee so that it could go right to work after Parliament's summer recess.

Senator Croft suggested five main principles be examined—the work and activity, housing, care and assistance for the aged; governmental aims in the field of voluntary social agency help; examination of the distance that modern methods have achieved from the old poor-house concept; ascertaining what Canada and other countries have done; and recommending ways and means to make greater progress.

Two main facts emerge, said Senator Croft, himself aged 63. It must be recognized that the state owes a special obligation to the senior citizens who have helped build the country and that these senior citizens increasingly are less able to provide essentials for themselves.

NAMES 'VITAL' AREAS

Employment, full health care, adequate pensions, housing and leisure were all vital.

The existing life expectancy of 71 would continue to rise. Persons aged 65 or more totalled 420,000 in 1921 and 1,391,000 in 1961. But the percentage of the 65-plus total population also was rising.

The senior citizens today needed a place in the world—

his own world—and this depended on federal and provincial help, voluntary agencies and a great deal of community effort, Senator Croft said.

Don't throw them a bribe of pension dollars before each election, he suggested. Respect for the elderly must be re-developed in an age when national leaders are, it seems, dedicated to youth and the pursuit of youth.

Extra Fishing Time Due to B.C. Strike

The Pacific trolling fleet resumed deep-sea fishing today while its net fishing counterparts miss out on a bumper catch of sockeye salmon falling to U.S. fishermen in Juan de Fuca Strait and Puget Sound.

U.S. salmon net fishermen were granted an extra 24 hours' fishing this week to compensate for the absence of a Canadian catch since United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union called a strike July 13.

They are taking sockeyes from the early and heavy Fraser River run in order to preserve the spawning grounds from destruction that would result from too large an escapement up-river.

The Fraser run has been so heavy the International Pacific Salmon Fisheries Commission, meeting Tuesday in Bellingham, granted the extra fishing time to Americans. An estimated 50,000 spawners have already made their way up-river, the commission was told.

Commission chairman Sen. Thomas Reid, one of the Canadian members, said American fishing time may be extended again, depending on the strike situation.

American seiners averaged 650 sockeye and 110 pinks, while gill netters averaged 120 sockeye and four pinks Monday.

Lloyd Royal, commission director, said there was no precedent for such an early abundance of fish.

'DISASTER' HITS ALASKA SALMON RUN

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Ernest Gruening (Dem.—Alaska) today asked President Kennedy to declare western Alaska a disaster area because of a greatly-reduced salmon run there this year.

The senator also urged efforts to improve treaty relations with Japan and other nations to conserve the salmon resource.

11th strike day with no sign of settlement with B.C. Fisheries Association, representing most major buyers and processors.

Prince Rupert Fishermen's Co-operative Association got its boats back to sea Tuesday after settling with the union.

The 3,000 members of the independent Pacific Trollers' Association are all expected to be back on the fishing grounds by Friday, when the first of their catch that began at dawn today will be landed in Seattle.

Co-operative Venture Formed

The association, headed by Dick Williams of Victoria, is circumventing the strike by forming a co-operative type venture to sell cohos and springs on the Seattle market at 32 cents a pound, an increase of two cents from what members were getting on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

The price follows agreement between American buyers and the Washington-Oregon trolling fleet, which is backing the Canadian trollers as long as they don't undersell the Americans, Mr. Williams said.

Since 75 per cent of the Canadian catch normally is sold on the American market, the co-operative arrangement simply eliminates the Canadian buyer for the duration of the strike.

The total west coast Canadian production of salmon for the fresh market now goes through one Seattle buyer instead of three major companies and a dozen small buyers along the B.C. coast.

"We went down there under impossible negotiating conditions and came out better than we were," Mr. Williams said.

He said if the strike is settled, the association would give its American buyer 48 hours' notice to terminate the sales agreement. The American agreement would then be a lever to better prices paid by Canadian buyers.

"If they are going to make this thing attractive, then they have got to pay the piper. But we'll be reasonable about it," Mr. Williams said, pointing out that they could quickly switch back to the Seattle market.

ROLLS OFF FERRY

Truck's Swim To Cost Some Dough

VANCOUVER (CP)—"Do you have a Sunbeam bread truck aboard?" Capt. Ted Wilson of the tug Island Challenger radioed the CPR ferry Princess of Vancouver as she came into her wharf here.

"Yes," replied the ferry. "Not any more." Capt. Wilson called back as he steered toward the truck which had burst through nylon rope barriers on the ferry's car deck and dropped into Vancouver Harbor.

The truck, buoyant because of its empty freight compartment, floated away from the tug. Eventually, however, the tug crew managed to get a line around it and towed it to the CPR dock where a crane pulled it out.

The CPR said the truck had jumped its chocks during a tight turn by the ferry and had rolled forward 50 feet before dropping over the stern.

Dock Talks Continue

VANCOUVER (CP)—A union official said today talks aimed at heading off a strike of West Coast longshoremen "are continuing daily."

But Watson Jones, president of Local 501, International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union (ILWU), said there has been no indication as yet as to any progress being made in the talks with the B.C. Shipping Federation.

Shipping Tie-Up

TORONTO (UPI)—Shipping operations in the port of Toronto again were paralyzed today by an inter-union dispute involving rival factions of the 500-member Toronto local of the International Longshoremen's Association.

Negro Despair Echoed at Church Rally

This is an account of a Negro church rally in Gadsden, Ala., June 27 at a time when Negroes were trying to regroup after setbacks in their drive for integration. Harold Morrison, CP Washington correspondent, was the only white man at the rally.

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

"Oh, Lord, oh, Lord... we need You... Oh, yes, we need You... we ask You: Throw Your arms around Your children... say the segregationists are wrong... Oh, Lord..."

The voice was that of Willie Porter, 21-year-old Negro youth leader, but the words he uttered, first in a low moan, then rising into a haunting, broken sob, seemed to echo the despair, the hope and the prayer of millions of American Negroes in the Deep South.

In the steel-and-rubber city of Gadsden, 65 miles north of Birmingham, Ala., the battle for integration through street demonstrations had reached a crucial point. Using electric cattle prodders and other means, police broke up sit-down and lie-down demonstrations in the streets, shops and hotels of this tightly segregated city.

Forward ranks of the demonstrators were smashed and militant Negro leaders and their most enthusiastic followers arrested. Gadsden jails were filled. You could hear the Negro inmates, including juveniles, singing spirituals as you walked by.

Now the remaining Negro leaders found the demonstrations were losing momentum. Their people talked of a new mass walk into the downtown shopping area which inevitably would lead to the jail cell, but enthusiasm seemed lacking. National Negro organizations rushed in more field workers. Willie was one of them.

On a moment's notice a mass rally was called for Union Baptist Church, whose Negro minister had two sons in jail. Hundreds of Negroes responded—mothers with babes in their arms, teen-agers, grandparents. Lookouts were posted to watch for police.

Willie was leading the congregation in prayer. He was on his knees on the floor in front of the congregation. His head was bowed. He prayed and moaned.

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

Gardeners all over the world have waited with baited breath to find out who won the weed-growing contest in Burford, England.

Today the news came through on the United Press International wire—the winner is Barbara Hyde, with a weed 134 inches long.

This is believed to be a world's record for a domestic garden weed—but is there a Victoria gardener who can beat it?

The Times' marine reporter became a travel counsellor the other day—with assist from the Royal Canadian Navy and the United States Navy.

A tourist from Joplin, Missouri, telephoned to ask if the retired battleship USS Missouri was anywhere in the vicinity, and if so, what was the best way to drive there.

The reporter didn't know but said he would find out. He telephoned the Royal Canadian Navy, and the RCN didn't know, either. BUT the RCN has a "yank at Dockyard," Cmdr. Hank Phelps, on exchange duty from the USN. You can bet your sea-boots HE knew.

So the reporter was able to inform the tourist the Big Mo is moored at Bremerton, with visitors permitted, and outlined the best way to get there by ferry and road.

Reeve Stanley Murphy of Saanich, a high school teacher by trade, was given a correspondence course in the evils of amalgamation this week.

Elon Cochrane, 4635 Blenkinsop, sent the reeve a glossy journal which contained an article on mergers in business and industry. He felt the process had a parallel in local government, and warned the reeve of the dangers of supporting the process.

Unkindest cut of all, however, was his advice that if Mr. Murphy could not understand the article, he should take it to his colleague Coun. Joe Casey for explanation.

The veteran councillor's attitudes on amalgamation have never been misunderstood.

Newcomers from Britain no doubt will have their hearts warmed to see the Union Jack bravely flying from atop a huge construction crane in the downtown area. At a rough guess it must be the only Union Jack flying in the city, where the Red Ensign has long since taken over for flagstaff purposes.

'Tis the same building project that advertised on its hoardings "Victoria's Most Prestigious Office Space," but has dropped the word "most" after a mention in this column.

Victoria's coffee house, The Secret, will close its doors for four nights next week for purposes of redecoration.

Kitchen and washroom facilities for the basement coffee house will be redone in the Monday-through-Thursday shut-down.

Manager Tony Else will also be decorating the hand of Lou Murgatroyd with a wedding ring, and they'll be taking the four days for a quick honeymoon.

"Third time lucky" is an old saw disproven by former Times staffer Dinah Kerr, who has just won honorable mention in the 28th Canadian Women's Press Club annual awards.

"Always a bridesmaid, never a bride," might be the way Dinah would look at her latest triumph, the third honorable mention she has won since 1958.

Her story on Medicare for Indians was written for the Toronto Star, for which she also wrote a profile on ex-Bank of Canada governor James Coyne for her second win.

First mention was won for a feature she wrote for the Times about a holdup at city hall.

Like they say on the parched Prairies, Dinah, "Mebbe next year."

INTEGRATION

"Our Father who art in heaven . . . My Father, we can't do without Thee . . . we can't get along without You . . . don't leave us . . . turn keys for us . . . in this city of fear . . ."

Willie was dragging himself across the front of the congregation, his broken voice slowly rising in pitch.

"Oh, Je-sus; Oh, Je-sus . . . You have moved mountains . . . do not leave me . . . take me home . . . make the segregationists leave me . . . oh, freedom; oh, freedom . . ."

A piano near the pulpit played in rhythmic accompaniment. Overhead, two old-fashioned ceiling fans whirled. A mother, feeding her baby a bottle of milk, nodded and whispered "oh, yes; oh, yes." There were tears in her eyes.

"Go on; go on."

Willie's voice seemed to choke. The audience urged him on. Willie broke into sobs.

"Oh, Lord! oh, Lord!"

His words suddenly ended in a sharp, uncontrollable shriek. Another shriek. Willie's face was a knot of twisted muscles.

Two young Negroes helped him from the church.

The congregation broke into a "freedom" spiritual: "before I be a slave, I be buried in my grave."

The congregation was whipped into a passion for resuming the march for those who were in jail, as for their children. A lanky clergyman rose to curse them "to hell" if they did not march. Another said it was a crisis: "Now or never."

He urged pregnant women and mothers with infants to join in the planned mass demonstration the following day.

"Your freedom is a myth, a lie," he shouted.

"I am sick of the white man; I want him off my b. k.," said another. "Let us all go to jail. Let us fill the jails. Let the white man know we are not afraid."

"Yah, yah," responded the crowd. But some of the younger Negroes at the rear of the church snickered. They probably knew

The provincial government was host this morning to a group of high school students participating in a B.C.-Quebec exchange program.

Ten youngsters from B.C. and 10 from Quebec are touring both provinces under the auspices of the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews.

They spent the earlier part of July in Quebec.

SHRUM:

'Keep Them in School'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Dr. Gordon Shrum proposed Tuesday that compulsory education should be extended to the age of 20 for boys and 18 for girls as a measure to prevent unemployment in Canada.

Dr. Shrum, chancellor of Simon Fraser University, a new university, to be built in suburban Burnaby, told a service club that other measures also should be taken.

He suggested that since unemployment was highest among the under-20 group—those without sufficient education—the government might impose a $200 fee for a marriage licence for those under 20 who wish to leave school and marry.

Another method would be to force youths under 20 to continue training unless they can produce a certificate from a psychologist proving them unfit for further training.

Dr. Shrum also told of his plans and ideals for the new university, to be built in suburban Burnaby starting next year.

Students should be admitted on the basis of their ability to pass university entrance examinations, not on whether they have completed their high school courses, he said.

Professors should be hired for their "inspirational ability." Those who get standing-room only in their classes would receive raises; those who got the opposite in their classes would be fired.

Dr. Shrum also suggested that professors might be paid

City Feels Squeeze On Fly Ash Problem

City Hall Tuesday appeared caught in the middle of an argument over who could sue for compensation relating to the fly ash problem.

Earlier, smoke committee chairman Ald. Geoffrey Edgell said the only way to eradicate all fly ash nuisances would be to ban the beehive waste burners used by some mills.

But this could lead to a law suit for large sums against the city as compensation for the firms.

This was countered by E.P. Hudson, managing director of Stewart and Hudson, who suggested property owners in the Gorge area who suffer from the fly ash fallout also could claim compensation.

"A number of businesses suffer considerable financial loss with damaged merchandise, clothing and loss of business generally," he said.

"We are put to the expense of sweeping it up and removing it. There's too much for the city garbage service to take away."

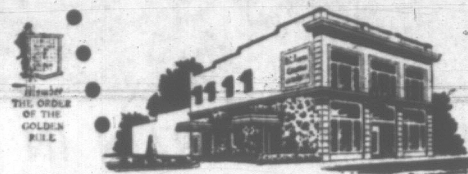

Mr. Hudson said smoke and fly ash problems have been solved in many other North American communities so

"why can't we beat the problem? What is so different in Victoria?"

FALL VICTIM RESTLESS

'Let's Go Back To Goldstream'

An 13-year-old boy who tumbled down 15 feet while climbing Mount Finlayson Tuesday is in good condition today in St. Joseph's Hospital.

James Cowie, son of Sqdn. Ldr. and Mrs. M. J. Cowie, 1228 McKenzie, received only abrasions and bruises in the fall.

Today his only complaint is that he wants to "get back to the camp in Goldstream Park."

He was returning from the summit of the mountain in a party of 27 members of the junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society when he slipped and fell, landing on a ledge.

Langford volunteer fire department was called in to help move the boy because it was known that he had a heart condition.

3 Trapped in Sand After Road Crash

VANCOUVER (CP)—Nine-year-old Jo-Ann Brown was still unconscious and in "poor" condition today from injuries suffered Tuesday when she and her mother and brother were trapped in sand following a collision between their car and a dump truck.

Jo-Ann lay helpless with her mother, Mrs. Berni Brown, and six-year-old brother Melvin when the 20-ton dump truck dumped its load of sand on their car after the vehicles collided at an intersection in Richmond.

After the car was bounced into the ditch by the impact the truck rolled partly on top of the car, caving in the car's right side and filling the vehicle with sand.

Police said only quick action by wreckers and an inhalator crew saved the three, who were trapped about 15 minutes.

NEGLECTED BY VANCOUVER?

Indian Collection Wanted in U.S.

VANCOUVER (CP)—A visiting anthropology professor says he sparked the bid by two California universities to purchase a collection of Indian artifacts, valued at between $300,000 and $200,000, from the Vancouver museum.

Prof. Edmund Carpenter, head of the anthropology department at San Fernando Valley state college, said the offer is being made jointly by San Fernando State and the University of California at his suggestion.

He said a rumor that the city plans to scrap the museum prompted his action.

"I can only say that I heard from a reliable source that the future of the museum is in doubt. I don't know what the city council will do, but it is obviously not interested in the collection. It has been neglected for years."

Carpenter, who is teaching at the University of B.C.'s summer school, said the Vancouver museum is "more like a barn than a museum."

"It is a firetrap. You walk in there and derelicts are sleeping on the floor. And then you go into the collection rooms and find absolute treasures side by side with total junk in cases made of old packing boxes."

Carpenter said the collection contains many irreplaceable relics of northwest Indian culture.

Mandy Contradicted By Fairbanks

NEW YORK (UPI)—Actor and millionaire businessman Douglas Fairbanks Jr. strongly has denied having illicit relations with playgirl Marilyn (Mandy) Rice-Davies.

Miss Rice-Davies said Tuesday during the London vice trial of Dr. Stephen Ward that she had been intimate with Fairbanks.

Following her testimony, Fairbanks, 53, issued a statement of denial through a spokesman here because British law temporarily prevents him from speaking out in London.

"I was shocked to hear a report about what I had remembered as a perfectly innocuous acquaintance," Fairbanks said through the spokesman.

"My meeting with both Miss (Christine) Keeler and Miss Rice-Davies occurred as a result of their wanting an opportunity in films in which, as I was no longer producing, I could not really assist them. I suggested agents and others they might contact."

Smallpox in Poland

WARSAW (AP)—Two persons have died in an outbreak of 17 cases of smallpox in Wroclaw, southwest Poland, the health ministry said Tuesday. The dead were members of the national public health service who came in contact with an unidentified Polish tourist believed to have carried the disease from Burma or India. More than 300 other persons have been isolated and are under observation.

Hees Appointment Brings Tory Jibes

Times News Services
OTTAWA—"Did you run out of Grits?"

That was the reaction of one Conservative MP in the Commons Tuesday to the announcement by Prime Minister Pearson that renegade Tory George Hees has been appointed to the federal commission overseeing arrangements for the world's fair in Montreal in 1967.

"You'll be sorry," another Conservative shouted.

Mr. Hees will take the place of Harry Price of Toronto, who resigned from the commission saying he was not bilingual and most of the work was carried on in French.

Mr. Hees is bilingual.

Since last February's cabinet revolt against then Prime Minister Diefenbaker, dark mutterings have recurred among Conservatives that Mr. Hees, one of their star performers as trade minister, was heading for a berth in the Liberal party.

Some Conservatives saw his new appointment as a first step along that road.

87% Rate on Mortgages Shocks Ontario Probers

TORONTO (CP)—If an interest rate of 21 per cent on secondary mortgages is considered "flagrant usury," what is a rate of 87 per cent?

Members of the Ontario legislature's select committee on the cost of consumer credit are running out of adjectives to describe some money-lending operations.

The select committee, comprising members of all three parties in the legislature, is seeking a way of making sure the public knows how much it costs to borrow money.

The Mortgage Brokers Registration Act, which now governs that field, has been described by V. J. Simone, provincial registrar of brokers, as "one of the dirtiest acts to administer."

Mr. Simone told the committee a month ago that one broker charged elderly women an effective interest rate of 37 per cent on a first mortgage, later paying back $1,000 on Mr. Simone's insistence.

South) said of Mr. Rosenberg's interest charges: "That's one of the most flagrant cases of usury I've ever heard of. It's enough to make your hair stand on end."

Mr. Rosenberg said Superior Finance Company charges up to 26.8 - per - cent interest on mortgages.

He accused A. M. Greenaway and Company of charging 29 per cent on a $1,700 loan.

Committee counsel Joseph Sedgwick read a letter from a man in Schomberg, Ont., 28 miles north of here, complaining that he got a $430 loan from Forest Hill Investment Corporation but was told he owed $875 on which he must pay seven per cent for 22 months to pay it off at $33 a month.

"I estimate that rate of interest at 87.3 per cent," Mr. Sedgwick said.

David Baillie, vice-president of Rosemont Investments Limited and current president of the Ontario Mortgage Brokers' Association, said true disclosure would allow the borrower to shop around.

"The public, by and large, does not know what interest is paid on many loans," Mr. Baillie said Tuesday.

Time to Pause

THE NEW CANADIAN PARLIAMENT already has crammed at least a year's normal work into its session of a few weeks. Now it should take a recess and give the government leisure to plan the next instalment of national policy.

Though surprising progress has been made in many directions, the government has made some serious mistakes in this session and all of them, as can be seen in retrospect, were due to haste. It is time to pause and ask ourselves where we go from here.

We cannot go exactly where the government hoped and planned when it took office—not immediately at any rate. Some costly projects will have to be postponed by the discovery of certain grim financial facts.

If the government's budgetary deficits continue long in their present volume, Mr. Gordon says, the nation will end "on the rocks." Yet the last deficit of the Diefenbaker government has not been significantly reduced this year, the imposition of the new construction tax has been postponed and even when it is fully enforced the government will need still more revenue if we are to achieve a balanced budget within visible time.

Clearly, therefore, the government will have to re-think all its financial planning and probably introduce a new budget in the autumn.

If it should contain some new taxes, possibly a tax on gasoline and other products, the public need not be surprised.

Distracted all day by the struggles of Parliament, the government is in no position to deal effectively with these problems. Besides, it now has on its hands a new struggle with the provincial governments whose demands for extra revenue, if granted, would completely disrupt all budgetary planning.

Until it can reassess its actual means and until it has reached agreement with the provinces, the government must plan in a vacuum, clamorous with the wrangles of Parliament.

When a great deal has been accomplished in the present session already, and when so much more remains to be done, what the nation most requires today is a breathing spell with the heat of politics turned off until autumn.

Presumably the opposition would accept an early recess since it has demonstrated, in a series of test votes, that it does not want another parliamentary crisis and an election. Nor do the Canadian people. The sooner, therefore, that Parliament winds up its present heavy and, on the whole, successful business, the better for the nation. After two or three months of consolidation and re-assessment things will look very different in the fall.

Education and the Job

MR. DANIEL SCHREIBER, director of the National Education Association project on school dropouts in the United States, reports some encouraging experiments if not to keep young people in school, at least to train them for the jobs they have the ability to handle after they have left the classroom.

A Chicago department store, he says, called on school authorities for 60 dropouts, gave the young people two weeks of prework training with pay, and assigned them to jobs in various departments while insisting that they attend school two days a week.

In San Francisco another successful plan has provided four hours' work and four hours' school a day, with pay at the rate of $1.37 an hour.

In Indiana an electric company made arrangements to bring teachers to its plant, and provided classroom space and facilities while the board paid the teachers. The scheme proved its value.

These various projects appear as new as the day in which we live. Yet employers looking back over the years may find in them a basic principle which has been applied for a long time. That principle is the training of new recruits, virtually all of whom have to be taught the jobs assigned them on the job. Customarily employers have carried the costs of such training, while paying a low wage to the young person in his own form of apprenticeship. The reward to the employer has come later, when the employee has learned enough to more than carry his weight in the work he is doing.

The difference in today's experiments lies largely in the fact that modern employment opportunities call for a higher general education than many which existed in the past. The boy or girl who drops out of school seldom has the basic skills in standard subjects to cope with the advanced technological processes involved in modern work. Hence the need to continue a form of schooling to make up for what has been missed by the dropout in the regular classes he or she has left.

In a day when automation ruthlessly weeds out the less educated, who then may become charges on society, more of the same type of training appears essential.

Such a development could lead, in turn, to a new attitude by employers toward the qualifications of those seeking jobs. The employers, conversant with the educational needs of staff for various departments, might profitably set up their own tests to determine abilities. Then they might proceed with the educational programs best adapted to the employment offered to the young people on a career basis.

The argument supporting such a plan, advanced in some quarters, is that a young person need not necessarily be a better technician because he has passed an honors course in advanced English. He might have been better equipped had his subject, or subjects, been more closely related to the vocation he entered.

New 'Bus-Stop' Plane

THE BRITISH AIRCRAFT INDUSTRY believes it has produced another winner to rank beside the Viscount, a product so popular that 400 of them are flown in virtually all air-conscious countries around the world.

Where the Viscount was a prop-jet, the new aircraft, the BAC-111, is a short-range jet, with engines mounted by the tail, somewhat similarly to the French Caravelle. It is designed to carry 74 passengers, cruise at 550 miles an hour, use restricted runways and operate on "bus-stop" routes, meaning short to medium range flights.

The prospects for the new plane are bright. Already orders have been received from the United States, from lines in the British Isles, from the Middle East and from Africa.

Moreover, delivery dates are much closer for the aircraft than for a competitive model due for production on this continent.

Here, it appears, is another example of British capabilities in manufacturing an excellent product to meet exacting standards in a world-wide market.

Welcome to Sunny Victoria!

MORE THAN 100 MEMBERS OF the National Editorial Association were in Victoria Tuesday for a brief look at our city and its environs.

We bid them welcome. Many of the men and women in the association are concerned with America's weekly press, which is developing at a rapid rate and in many areas has been compelled—by the growth of suburbia—to make the crucial jump to the full daily status enjoyed by others of the group.

We are grateful that their arrival was heralded by a re-emergence of the sun, so long absent from these parts. It is our fervent hope that the visiting editors will now sit down and compose glowing dispatches for their papers on the glories of Victoria's weather.

Who's Out of Bounds?

THE PROFESSIONAL GOLFERS Association of the United States has announced that their own champion, Jack Nicklaus, is not eligible to play against Britain in the Ryder Cup matches this year because he has not served a full five-year term in the association. Until he does so, he is classed as an "apprentice."

So far this year Mr. Nicklaus has won only the Masters championship and the PGA, as well as $75,000 in cash. That's a promising start for an apprentice.

CANADA'S CONSTITUTIONAL NEED

A Dialogue Instead of Shriill Talk

From The Montreal Star

WHERE there is a lack of dialogue all conversation ceases after a time and all thought withers and dies. A good mind cannot flourish in an atmosphere of yea-saying and a good idea needs to be tested, subjected to tension, to the process of dispute. There is a dangerous lack of dialogue today in the province of Quebec, not only in what we somewhat euphemistically call French Canada, but among us all.

Crank's Dream

What began three years ago as a crank's dream of separatism is still a crank's dream, but as a conversation piece it has swept all before it. Without adding one solid bit of evidence in its favor or one convert of respectable provenance, it has reached a point where no public man dare speak against it, and all kinds of people speak for it, covertly or openly, in a curious mixture of ways — the open separatists, the yes-maybe separatists, the last-chance Confederationists, in one gabble of affirmation.

It is a pleasure, then, to hail a lone courageous bit of nay-saying, to read in Le Devoir of June 28, an editorial so wise, so candid that we hastened to give it prominence in our selections from the French Press.

Le Devoir's — or Andre Laurendeau's — theme is not that separatism has gone too far and too fast, but that some of its advocates and coffee-table aficionados are using it as escapism — as a substitute for hard thought about the present and future of French Canadians, economically and culturally. Its essence is in the sentence which we repeat here:

"It is true that the more thoughtful separatists recognize that not all problems will be solved by independence; the most serious ones will even become more acute. Only, they say, we shall then have the instruments without which these problems become insoluble. In our view this attitude over-estimates the role of the state. It also under-estimates the difficulties inherent in a North American environment, and the base an overhauled Confederation could provide."

It would be easy to sit back and fold hands and thank God that Andre Laurendeau wrote that, because in today's climate no English editor could say it and get a hearing. But that would be too easy; it would also be wrong; it would be slipping into the flaccid, dialogueless posture which is becoming the intellectual posture of Quebec today. We would be subscribing to the new heresy of supine-ness.

The English press of Quebec, lately perhaps, but quite honorably, has taken a constructive position about the changes which are coming so rapidly in this province. Because that position at times seems too close to that of French Canadian spokesmen, it may seem to be the same; indeed it may to the cynical seem like the embodiment of an if-you-can't-lick-'em-join-'em philosophy. It is neither of these things, but before saying what it is let us note that it is not separatism or extremism or even acquiescence.

Place in the Sun

When obtuseness in the other provinces or obtuseness in the old English strongholds of Quebec, opposition, say, to an examination of the two cultures, withholding of job opportunities, patronage or indifference, stand between the French Canadian and his place in the sun, we are on the French Canadian's side. When our French Canadian brothers, some of them, mistake a place in the sun for a right to reshape the demography of North America, we aren't. It is as simple as that.

What is at stake is more than the French Canadian race. There are other races involved, several of them.

The simple, emotional nationalist talks as if all of Quebec, every cubic inch of it, were his. That is not so unless every rain-drop, tree or pebble in the other nine provinces belong exclusively to the old British-descended stock, which is such obvious nonsense that we need not pursue it further.

Even the more balanced economic nationalist in this province sometimes believes that a change in political labels involves an automatic, or at least a rapid, change of ownership. It doesn't unless you are going to bring Castroism into the argument.

A French Canadian who sincerely wants to bring about an economic change ought to work for a revised Confederation because it is under that kindly umbrella that he will be most successful in the hard economic shove.

All separatists and most quasi-separatists beg another important question — that of les Anglais and their stake in Quebec. A lot of les Anglais were here before Confederation and a lot of the wealth of this province is not natural resource at all but what these same Anglais built and which, in the traditional manner of Anglais, they are not going to let go lightly. Any realistic appraisal of the situation today must take this into account.

Mr. Laurendeau in his editorial notes that in Quebec partisans of the status quo may be a majority but adds that it is hard to determine this because they are not expressing themselves.

It is true that they dare not, and it is deplorable. It is another example of the absence of mature dialogue. All the talking is one way, and much of the talking is being done not even by intellectuals, not even by Mr. Daniel Johnson and his cohorts so newly converted to the habit of thought, but by students. This is a conventional development in Cairo, Caracas or Accra, but it is quite new and odd in any temperate climate.

A Time for Youth

In the Anglo-Saxon world we have our faults, but taking students too seriously is not one of them. We don't ignore them because after all, today's students will be running the country in a few years; but generally we realize that there is a place and a time for the emergence of ideas.

It is high time that the sensible adult mass of our French compatriots borrowed this sang-froid. Student chatter over coffee-and-cookies is natural and healthy, but the adult world must never abdicate to it. And that is another danger in Quebec today unless we get a healthy dialogue going. This is an attempt to get it going, based upon our stake in the common future of us all.

In the Opinion of Our Correspondents

Siebnor's Art

We fully agree with your correspondent Mr. Rockwell and "Spectator" on Siebnor's so-called art.

Like all cultures, art does not stand still. Progress and change we expect but Siebnor's efforts as displayed in the "Times" can only be described as retrogression. In our opinion they could not stand up in comparison with many of the cave drawings of early times.

There must be hundreds of people like ourselves who resent their hard earned taxes being handed out for the production of such drab and uninteresting daubs.

Hot Line From Jock

During the past few days I have received a great deal of unwanted publicity from the press, not that I blame them as I suppose it isn't every day someone falls a tree and sets a house on fire, but I do feel that not one of the newspapers reported the full facts of the accident that need never have happened.

On Thursday I called the Hydro Authority and asked them to have someone attend at Maple Road the following day and I was told they would see what they could do about it. In the good old days when Joe Casey was boss that meant a man would be there.

On Friday I waited until after lunch for them to show and then I roped the tree and started to cut it down. As has been reported, the wind caused the tree to get away from me and go through the power line, but the greater part of the damage could still have been averted. As the line was still alive and there were children in the area I couldn't leave the scene, so my wife ran half a mile to a house and the lady there got her husband and drove to a phone to turn in the alarm. No one can deny that she told the Saanich firehall operator the nature of the fire and its location, but in the excitement she did not call the Hydro Authority, thinking, as I would have, that the operator would notify them. The fire truck arrived just after 3 p.m. and then the RCMP from Sidney but no one thought to check, so we all stood helpless and watched the hot line burning until after 4 p.m. when it burned through and kicked back and hit the house wire, starting the fire in the walls and ceiling.

There was still nothing the firefighters could do until one with a little more under his hat borrowed a shotgun and shot the line down. Meantime, it was found that the next house was on fire, the current having travelled down the phone wires. The fires were both out by the time the line crew arrived.

I do not blame anyone for the delay in their arrival, but I would like to suggest that in future, operators receiving such calls take it on themselves to notify the B.C. Hydro. It can do no harm.

I would like to hear that the B.C. Hydro would install fuses in the proper places so that when a tree breaks the line the fuse will blow immediately, as it is quite possible for a tree to come down in the middle of the night with the same result.

Incidentally, the tree I cut was far gone with rot and was a definite danger. In closing, I'd like to say how sorry I am for the damage and inconvenience this accident caused.

JOCK FRASER

Vet Widow's Housing

It is not widely known that the Veterans' Land Act has made no provision to help the widows of veterans. For a veteran and wife there is provision, but for a widow on war allowance pension there is none.

This can mean that in two homes, side by side, one veteran's home has protection from disaster, and cold housing, the widow's home has not. Recently our B.C. government spent $34,000 to restore an old home for historic interests, a job worth doing, perhaps.

Has housing for people in moderate circumstances lost its place in Canada, especially in our Canadian city of Victoria? The cry of do not build this place, or that, is too often heard.

Should widows of veterans be forced through circumstances to occupy homes that lack the standards of good Canadian housing?

KINGSTON LETTER

Who's Top In Jamaica?

By GEORGE MacFARLANE

A strange and embarrassing campaign to whittle the prestige of Governor-General Sir Clifford Campbell is being waged by Jamaica's aging but still lusty Prime Minister, Sir Alexander Bustamante.

The rapid rise in stature of the first Jamaica-born governor-general has been one of the truly gratifying by-products of Jamaican independence. But while most residents of this Caribbean island can't hide their delight with their new governor-general, there is one notable citizen who can't conceal his displeasure.

It was clear when Jamaica attained its independence within the Commonwealth a year ago that Sir Alexander Bustamante was faced with a difficult personal decision. Prime Minister or governor-general?

He had publicly and noisily aspired to the position of governor-general, but with the return to England of the island's last governor, Sir Kenneth Blackburne, some of the glitter and pomp of King's House departed too.

Too Sweet a Plum

In the circumstances, being prime minister of the newly independent nation was too sweet a plum to discard. So Sir Alexander temporarily lost his taste for King's House and with a great show of gallantry turned the job over to long-time friend, Clifford Campbell, then president of the senate.

When Sir Clifford, a squat former school teacher who bears a striking resemblance to jazz trumpeter Louis Armstrong, entered the gates to take up residence in King's House, he could have been excused a moment of panic.

To his great credit he threw himself into this new and unexpected role with immense vigor. His conduct in his first seven months has been immaculate; his capacity for public appearances has been reflected in the Kingston newspapers where his picture sometimes appears four or five times in a single issue; he has been gracious to a fault and Jamaicans, skeptical at first, have responded warmly.

But to the man who could have had the job for the asking, Sir Clifford's soaring popularity has proved too much to bear.

The prime minister huffily reminded the country recently that it was he who had chosen Sir Clifford as governor-general when he could as easily have chosen himself.

Further, he suggested that the head of state was not the head of state at all and that Sir Clifford's tenure of office was at the discretion of the prime minister (that this is true did nothing to relieve the general displeasure at its being stated.)

Rubbing Elbows

On an island the size of Jamaica the prime minister and governor-general are frequently not only rubbing elbows but tripping over each other socially. And it is socially that Sir Clifford has been winning the marks. Earlier conjecture that he was merely filling in for his more colorful friend, the prime minister, is fast fading.

Also irritating to Sir Alexander is the matter of housing. In this department, the prime minister is indeed playing second fiddle—for the moment at least. Prior to the election of Mr. Bustamante's Jamaica Labor Party a year ago, the government of the People's National Party, had refurbished at great expense an old mansion, Vale Royal, for the prime minister, then Norman W. Manley. (He and Bustamante are cousins.)

But flushed with a resounding and surprising triumph at the polls, Sir Alexander sniffed with disdain at Vale Royal and turned it over to his finance minister, Donald Sangster, heir apparent to the party leadership. It was decided then to cut a slice from the vast King's House estate and build a new prime minister's residence there.

Thus, one way or another, Sir Alexander Bustamante seems destined to live at King's House, if not in it. But, in the meantime, Sir Clifford Campbell lives in luxury while the prime minister sits in a relatively modest house that he owns in a Kingston suburb.

MARKED for READING SOUNDS FAT

The meat-eating public today on the whole isn't given to liking fat—but how to know for sure that the animal's flesh hasn't much fat? Experiments are being made by "firing" an ultrasonic pulse into, say a pig, which reflects back waves from the interlayers of the tissue. A commercial firm is now developing this technique, feeding these sound waves into a circuit with a cathode ray tube in it—a TV screen, so in about ten seconds it will be seen whether the back rashers are, as yet, lean or fat.

SEVER TIES WITH WEST

RAWALPINDI (Reuters) — Pakistani legislators demanded Tuesday that the government sever defence ties with the West and seek non-aligned aid and friendship wherever Pakistan can find it.

Opposition members of the National Assembly were launching a two-day foreign policy debate following External Affairs Minister Z. A. Bhutto's speech last week saying "the largest country in Asia" would help Pakistan against any Indian attack.

Anger has risen high in this country over British and American arms aid to India and the agreement to put an American radio transmitter in India.

It Needs a Little Study

"I RECOGNIZE the delicacy of the subject," said the lady in our house, "and I'm a little reticent about making inquiries. Nevertheless I shall ask. Are you a graduate of Harry Haigh's College?"

I said "No."

"Well," she continued, "maybe the question was not properly phrased. Let us try it again. Did you take the course and fail?"

I repeated my "No."

"You mean," she asked, "that you've never taken instructions in the junk business? That you've never been told how to do it by experts? That you haven't even read the condensed report of the visiting lecturer who told Harry that his instruction was nothing more than moving junk from one place to another — and charged Mr. Haigh a pretty fat fee for his words of wisdom?"

"In other words, you don't know nothing about junk."

I told her not to use the double negative.

"Well a-l-i-g-h-t," she said, "a-l-i-g-h-t," drawing the words out like glue on a stick from a can. "You don't know anything about junk. But what are you doing with all this stuff on our lot? Haven't you're townplanning friends ever told you about lot maintenance?"

"We've got an empty five-gallon gas can under our back steps, and we've had it for 30 years because you thought it might come in handy some time. Just you lift it up. You'll be surprised. The whole bottom has rusted out and the can's full of fallow weeds that have grown pale white and spindly inside its inside from lack of sunshine.

"We've got that three-foot diameter piece of vitrified sewer pipe full of solid concrete which once was a lawn roller. Remember the last time you pushed it? You rolled it over our sewer outlet and the weight of the thing broke the pipe. That was a smelly business, my man, and costly on the replacement, too.

"We've got sets of old roof jacks that were suppose to be handy when we had real cedar shingles. Have you ever thought of what the metal teeth would do to the composition finish we had laid on two years ago? We need these roof jacks now? What for? To give Dick Nex a headache if we ever dug them into the roof again?"

"We've got that small pile of broken bricks by the fence. I'm not sure why we saved them in the first place. But if you think you're going to use them to throw at the cats that chorus around here at night, you'd better straighten out your aim or nobody's windows will be safe.

"We've got three lengths of petrified rubber hose that breaks every time it's drug around the corner and that leaks at the faucet."

"Dragged, not 'drug,'" I told her.

"Okay," she answered, "dragged. What are you keeping it for — as a winter home for friendless earwigs?"

"I want you to know, my somewhat obese Adonis, that I've had a great plenty of your savings ways. We're loaded down with altogether too much of nothing. I want you to get it out of the yard. Out! Out! Do you hear me?"

Which goes to prove that I shoulda taken Harry Haigh's course after all.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER ALVAREZ

Gluing Tissues Together

Some interesting experiments recently have been conducted, which show that in the future surgeons in the operating room can glue tissues together, instead of sewing them together. The seams are tight and strong.

The new type of glue, made of one or more synthetic resins, does no harm to the tissues, and the "seam" will hold tight for at least eight weeks. If the gluing can be done faster than sewing, or if it will work well in the repairing of holes in small arteries, it may soon be the method of choice.

The glue can be particularly helpful in sticking together fragile tissues such as are found in the eye, or in tiny blood vessels.

Recently, some 242 people with the so-called hemorrhagic (or "bleeding") diseases were studied by Dr. Kenneth M. Brinkhous of the University of North Carolina; he wrote a fine article on the several diseases in which persons bleed heavily and perhaps dangerously.

Most of the patients studied had difficulties with the clotting of their blood — either with the original hemophilia, or with the "Christmas disease," or the Willebrand's disease — both of which resemble hemophilia and can be distinguished from it only by an expert.

The blood specialists still have much to learn about why some people bleed dangerously and what is wrong with their blood. The process of the clotting of blood, and the stoppage of bleeding is a most complicated affair, and already 12 factors in our blood, that have to do with the process, have been identified.

HOME GARDEN

By HILDA BEASTALL

Bonsai Wins New Followers

It could be that the art of bonsai will lead to a new form of gardening in our western world.

Whether the average flower-growing gardener likes the trend or not, bonsai is finding a surprising following in Victoria and this area in general.

I believe bonsai to be the art of growing tree material in small containers for a number of years, and training the branches into designs representing certain definite ideas.

If I'm wrong, now is the time for the bonsai enthusiasts to rise up and speak.

The present-day patio areas, paved terraces and areas of green concrete for "grass" all lend themselves to using bonsai.

Flowers are rarely, if ever, produced in bonsai. The form, or shape, is the thing.

Plain colored walls in smooth texture make admirable backgrounds for these elegantly trained miniature trees outdoors, since the shadows, or reflections, become part of the finished picture at certain hours of the day.

Raised platforms, concrete blocks, a series of shallow steps, all can be used for providing different heights for showing bonsai pieces to advantage in the garden.

A plain plywood panel makes a simple background for bonsai if it is wanted as a feature piece in the open away from existing walls.

Probably the most intriguing thing about this hobby is the possibility of the various changes which can be made in the decorative scheme as the bonsai gardener's collection of plants increases.

WE NEED HER ARMS

Israel 'Realistic' About Germany

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector (AP)—Israel has cast aside bitter memories of Nazi concentration camps and is ready to establish diplomatic relations with West Germany.

"It's up to Germany now," says an Israeli official. Why has this country decided to exchange ambassadors with Germany, which under the Nazis killed 6,000,000 Jews?

"We must be realistic," says one Israeli diplomat. "We need West Germany now. We need her arms, what she can give us."

There is still opposition to the move in the Knesset (parliament) and from many of Israel's 2,500,000 citizens. But this opposition is no: nearly as strong as it once was.

Anti-German demonstrations protesting the recent visit here of Franz-Joseph Strauss, former West German defence minister, fizzled.

URGES EXCHANGE — When Strauss was ready to return home, he said: "The time has come to normalize relations. And by normal relations I mean establish diplomatic relations with an exchange of ambassadors."

Eugen Gerstenmaier, president of the West German Bundestag (parliament), agreed. In New York in June he told the UN Correspondents Association here favored establishment of full diplomatic relations with Israel.

He told reporters he spoke for a great majority of the Bundestag when he said such recognition could not be considered an

Glad Show Opened To Dahlias

A gladiolus and dahlia show, sponsored by Victoria Gladiolus Society, will be held Aug. 9 and 10 in Christ Church Memorial Hall.

It will be officially opened by Mrs. Brian Whitlow at 2:30 p.m. This is the first time in the 16-year history of the show that dahlias will be included in competitions. In all, judging will take place in 72 sections.

Trophies and awards will be presented Aug. 10 at 8:30 p.m., followed by an auction of blooms one hour later.

Refreshments will be included in the admission price of 50 cents.

Municipal Body Pushes for Fund

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities today pressed for the immediate establishment of a municipal loan and development fund "by the federal government with the concurrence and co-operation of the provinces."

In a letter addressed to Prime Minister Pearson and the premiers of all 10 provinces, the federation said such a measure has been endorsed by municipal spokesmen in all parts of Canada and should be enacted during the current session of Parliament.

The federation had first proposed a federal municipal loan fund in February, 1958, and "each year since that date this proposal has been renewed, re-emphasized and supported in detail and in depth."

The letter, signed by President I. W. Akerley, mayor of Dartmouth, N.S., said the federation was "exceedingly gratified" to learn that a federal-provincial conference will be held Friday and Saturday to discuss the proposed municipal fund.

Quebec Premier Jean Lesage has stated his opposition to the federal plan on several occasions, and has sent Mr. Pearson the text of a protest resolution adopted unanimously by the Quebec legislature.

Mr. Lesage has described the federal proposal as an invasion of provincial jurisdiction and as a breach of an election promise made by Mr. Pearson that he would do nothing in the municipal field without consulting the provinces.

Will Dief Block Pay Hike?

OTTAWA (UPI)—Opposition leader John Diefenbaker may provide a formidable stumbling block to the government's proposed salary increases for members of parliament, informed sources said today.

A cloud hung over the prospect of the pay boost, which was slated for introduction in the commons later this week, or at least before the summer recess.

Before placing the legislation before the house, secretary of state and government house leader John W. Pickers-gill has been seeking an all-party agreement on the matter to make the increase unanimous.

AGED FOR PREMIUM FLAVOR

Causeway Precinct Bylaw Due for Passage Thursday

Final passage of the city's Inner Harbor precinct bylaw aimed at preserving the character of the Causeway area is anticipated at a council meeting Thursday.

The bylaw, introduced Jan. 17 of this year, imposes setback restrictions on land fronting on Government, Humboldt, Douglas and Belleville Streets which is zoned for transient accommodation and government buildings.

CPR OPPOSITION

After initial readings a public hearing was held Feb. 14, at which Canadian Pacific Railway real estate manager D. P. Shepard, of Vancouver, opposed the bylaw because it would restrict plans for Empress Hotel property fronting on Belleville and Government.

Tabled for five months pending negotiations with the CPR, the bylaw will now be lifted and is expected to be passed.

Mr. Shepard met with Mayor R. B. Wilson this week and indicated the CPR will not oppose the bylaw, on the understanding there would be further negotiations.

100 FEET BACK

The bylaw imposes setbacks of 100 feet on Government opposite the Causeway and on Belleville between Douglas and Oswego, and 25 feet on Humboldt between Government and Douglas, and on Douglas between Humboldt and Belleville.

The railway company proposed commercial development of its Empress Hotel property at the corner of Government and Humboldt and along Belleville on land now occupied by gardens and Vancouver Island Coach Lines depot.

'LONGEST TRUCE IN HISTORY'

SEOUL, Korea (UPI) — The United Nations Command in Korea celebrated its 13th anniversary today, still guarding the longest truce in history.

But it is a shrunken command that the United States is having a tough time keeping together.

Of the 16 countries which sent combat units to Korea in the early days of the Korean war, only two besides the United States still maintain troops in Korea.

These two countries are Thailand and Turkey and they only have a combined total of about 600 troops among the 600,000 that make up the UNC. The vast bulk are Americans and Koreans.

East German Guards Halt Flower-Picking Expedition

By DAVID SELLS

BROCHTHAUSEN, West Germany (Reuters) — Two Welsh children have told how they were captured at gunpoint by Communist East German border guards last Saturday night after they wandered into a frontier minefield while picking flowers for their mother.

The children returned here for a happy reunion with their widowed mother, Mrs. Edna Davies, 35, after being freed by East German authorities Monday night.

"Mom, Mom," cried Sonia 10, and her brother Stephen, 12, as they dashed from a British official's car to their mother's arms.

The Davies children who came here on a visit last month were out for a stroll Saturday night with a close family friend, Heinz Rauter, 35, a local insurance manager.

"We were picking flowers for my mother when all of a sudden two men came up," said Sonia.

"One of them pointed a gun at us and said he would shoot us if we moved. We had to go with him."

AREA SEEMED SAFE

Rauter, also freed Monday night, said they were in an area which he thought was West Germany and "seemed quite safe. There were no signs at all to mark the border and the usual East German plowed strip inside it was all overgrown."

Stephen told of their walk under East German armed escort along a mine-free strip of land in the minefield.

One guard climbed into a watchtower and said on the telephone "We have caught them." A few minutes later an army lieutenant and six other guards drove up in a truck.

They were driven to an East German army encampment at nearby Weissenborn.

SLEPT IN BARRACKS

The three were given beds for the night in a barracks room. Rauter said.

"The East German soldiers were tiptoeing in and out during the night to get to their lockers."

On Monday evening they were put on a train for West Germany where they were met by West German police. They spent that night in a youth hotel at Bebra.

'Fair Play Ignored' SIU Boss Fires Back

MONTREAL (UPI) — Hal C. Banks, Canadian boss of the Seafarers' International Union, today rejected the proposals of the Norris commission on lake shipping as an "insult to the working man."

The commission, set up by the federal government in an effort to end labor strife on the inland waterways, had "failed to observe the rules of fair play," Banks charged in a prepared statement.

Justice T. G. Norris' report branded the volatile union leader as "a bully . . . contemptuous of the law" who should be banned from holding union office.

Banks' statement charged the commissioner with using public relations to "color and distort the issue."

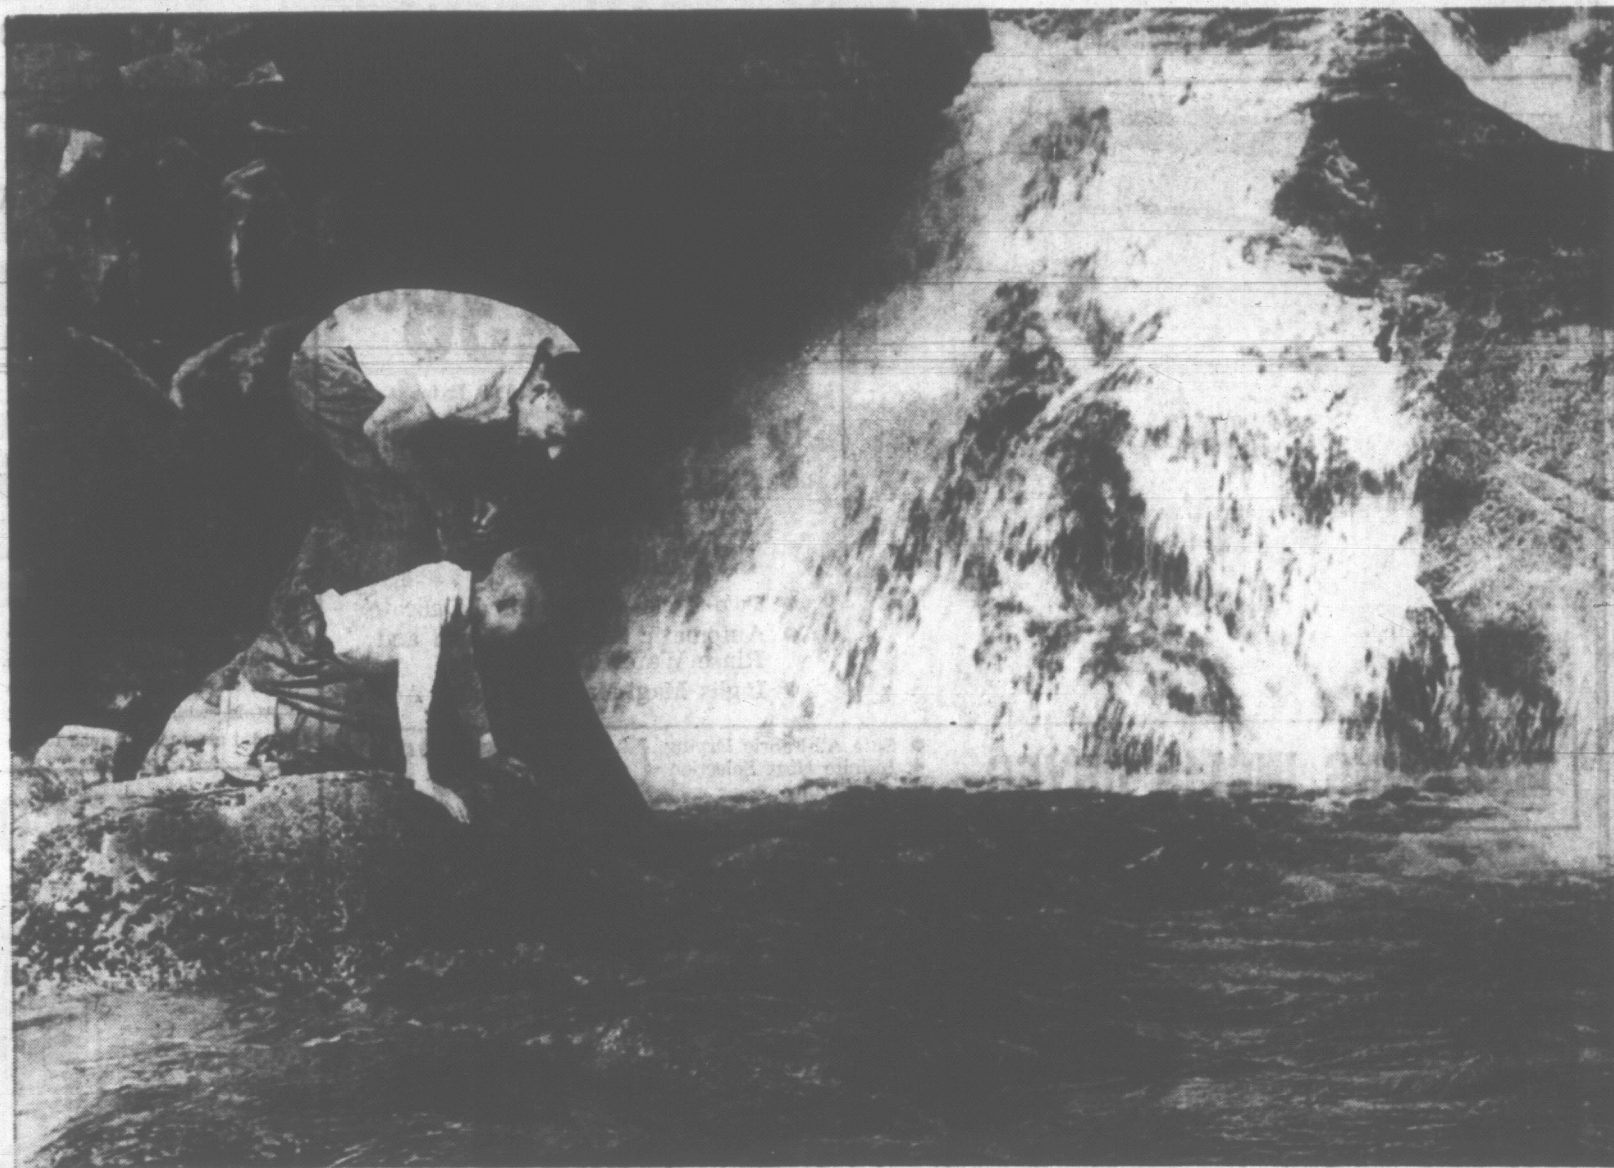

"Through skillful propaganda, the public has been led to believe that our dispute concerns Canadian shipping in general," Banks said. "That is not the case. We have a dispute only with Upper Lakes, which operates 13 ships in the Great Lakes trade."

"No other shipping company is involved, and no other vessels are affected."

"We envisioned the commissioner as a peacemaker. Instead he has sown the seeds of industrial strife and invited discord in the field of labor relations," Banks charged.

Carpenters Still Out

TORONTO (UPI) — A provincial government mediator today began talks with labor and management in an attempt to halt a carpenters' strike that has crippled commercial construction in the Toronto area.

Top Passing Duel Expected Tonight

VANCOUVER (CP) — Saskatchewan Roughriders and British Columbia Lions clash tonight in a pre-season Western Football Conference game that is expected to be a battle of passing offences.

With Joe Kapp at the helm, the Lions hope to add to their 30-27 exhibition win over Toronto Argonauts last week.

The game will be Roughriders first exhibition of the year—and their first game under Bob Shaw, who replaced Steve Owen as head coach last season.

First-string quarterback Bob Placock will provide the fire-power for a team that Shaw has moulded into a passing machine.

There will be a new wrinkle — Larry Cline, a quarterback from Otterbein College in Ohio.

Cline played for Columbus in the semi-pro United Football League last year, completing 31 touchdown passes.

The Lions' pass defence, with rookies Bill Munsey and Steve Shafer combining with holdovers By Bailey and Neil Beaumont, is considered a necessary key to B.C.'s success this season.

CARPIN WON'T PLAY

Missing from the Lions' lineup will be Canadian end Jim Carpin.

Doctors began a series of tests Monday to determine whether there is any recurrence or delayed damage from the liver infection he contracted in Mexico last winter.

Tests will continue through the week, doctors said.

It had appeared that Carpin had made a remarkable recovery from hepatitis but during a medical examination several weeks ago one doctor reported he saw something which prompted further medical investigation.

Riders Nip Bombers

OTTAWA (CP) — A sixyard touchdown run by Tommy Lee with three minutes and 20 seconds remaining gave Ottawa Rough Riders a 31-29 exhibition football victory over the Grey Cup champion Winnipeg Blue Bombers Tuesday night.

The rookie quarterback's major score capped a season-long battle between the Western Conference champions and Rough Riders, who failed to make the Eastern Conference finals last year.

Not long before, Winnipeg had appeared to be on the way to victory when quarterback Dick Thornton ran 20 yards for a converted touchdown which gave the Blue Bombers a 29-24 lead.

IMPORTANT FIELD GOAL

Each team scored four touchdowns, with Moe Racine's field goal providing the margin of difference for Ottawa. For the Blue Bombers, Jack Delvaux kicked a single.

Winnipeg touchdowns were scored by Thornton, halfback Henry Janzen and ends Farrell Funtun and Ernie Pitts.

Quarterback Russ Jackson scored for Ottawa in addition to Lee, Tucker and Belu.

Racine converted all the Rough Rider touchdowns and Gord Rowland converted all of Winnipeg's.

In Toronto for an exhibition game with the Argonauts to-night, Edmonton Eskimos are expected to go with their first stringers most of the way.

Eskimo coach Eagle Kays dressed and used 43 players Monday in Edmonton's 17-14 loss to the Alouettes in Montreal.

Toronto coach Knobby Winkowski said he will delay until just before game time his decision on whether to use Jackie Parker against his former club. Parker injured his knee and ankle in an intra-squad game three weeks ago.

Workers Are Yanks Of Senior Baseball

Transport Workers took another big step forward in their quest for a second straight Senior Amateur Baseball League pennant.

Workers stepped five games ahead of their closest rivals Tuesday night, erupting for a five-run spurge in the third inning that carried them to a 6-4 victory over Independents.

The Royal Athletic Park game was called at the end of the seventh because of darkness.

A two-run error touched off the five-run spree. Gary Leibell stole home and the final runs came in on singles by Keith Dagg and Cliff Kilduff.

Return to Soccer

VANCOUVER (CP) — New Westminster Royals, a time-honored name in Canadian soccer, is being reactivated after a one-year absence.

Royal City manager Cecil Goodheart has applied to the Pacific Coast League for permission to have the team's name changed to Royals. Royal City replaced the nine-time Canadian champions last year.

DOES IT HURT, DOC?

Apparently getting little sympathy from Frank Malzone, Doc Edwards, Kansas City catcher, drops to knees in pain after being hit by foul tip from bat of Boston Red Sox third baseman, who leans nonchalantly on bat. Edwards, however, had last laugh. He stayed in game and watched Malzone hit grounder for final out of American League game and 1-0 Kansas City victory. (AP Wirephoto)

Len Provides Action

TEE TOPICS

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Adding back-spin to the last pre-holiday shot...

The southpaws continue to stir. Jack Irving and John Fraser of Uplands have followed Bill Dow in taking memberships with the National Association of Left-handed Golfers. And Colwood, we hear, is most receptive to the idea of inviting the 1966 NALG tournament to Victoria.

Now comes word that Victoria southpaws are ready to form their own association. Lefties interested are asked to turn out for an organizational meeting next Tuesday in Harmony Hall at the Town and Country Shopping Centre.

Colwood members came through with a generous gesture last week, picking up the tab for juniors Ricky Kent and Don McKay after they enrolled in the junior clinic at Chilliwack. Fred Grosse, scoring a gross 86, claimed the Gorge Vale seniors' championship last week. Vancouver Island seniors stage their annual outing this week and the Pacific Northwest Seniors' Association tournament comes up at Oak Bay Aug. 11-15.

Vancouver's Johnny Russell came up with a record-breaking 65 in winning the annual Chilliwack Open. Russell finished the 36-hole event with 133, seven under par. Bob Kidd was runner-up with 139.

Add hole-in-one department: Len Smith, the 14th at Gorge Vale while playing in a threesome with Mike Ham and Clara Johnson. Lloyd Cass also clicked for an ace at the Gorge, dropping his tee shot into the cup on the second.

Also Bud Bennett, who counted his big shot Sunday on Uplands' 16th hole. Frank Richmond went to Cedar Hill to score his hole-in-one.

And the day's fast approaching when Uplands members can start inviting guests into a plush new clubhouse. Carpets went down Monday in the 19th hole and members will be able to move into lockers later this week.

Although most of the kitchen equipment is installed, main floor facilities won't be in use for at least two weeks. What is left of the old clubhouse will come down next week.

The B.C. Professional Golfers' Association hopes to ship at least six representatives to the McNaughton-Brooke's Bursary tournament in Toronto next month. Top three finishers in the event, restricted to pros under 30, are sponsored to a 10-week stay on the Gold Trail.

Four B.C. pros are being privately financed for the Toronto trip and the BCPGA will pick the other two. The two will be picked after a special playoff in Vancouver Aug. 2.

Cedar Hill's Dickie Munn hopes to be able to make it there.

Plans for the Canadian junior, to be staged at Colwood in August, are progressing in fine style. Elaborate opening ceremonies have been set up and there won't be much news until the makeup of the various provincial teams start trickling in.

Fort Angeles visits Colwood, club handicap finals, at Uplands, and Maynard Trophy competition starts at Gorge Vale—all this Sunday.

Bill Hobbs captured the Cedar Hill Trophy while Ray Harrington won low gross honors in the 36-hole medal event.

Keith Reber of Regina, Jimmy Selasson and Ed Ross of Saskatoon and Swift Current's Barry McKenzie have been named to Saskatchewan's Willingdon Cup team.

Don Davidson defeated Brian McGuigan for the Quebec Amateur title last weekend while Bill Morland of North Bay defeated Gord MacKenzie in the Ontario final.

Television commitments have forced Stan Leonard and George Knudson to drop out of the international pro-am tournament at Toledo Aug. 6.

Al Johnston and Moe Norman will take over on the Canadian team, which also includes pro Al Belding and Alvie Thompson and amateurs Gary Cowan, Nick Weslock, Phil Brownlee and MacKenzie.

Langset Bounces McLarens Squad

McLarens are on the outside looking on and the Senior Men's Softball League playoffs today are narrowed down to a best-of-three series between Imperials and Sooke.

McLarens went down fighting. Heavily-favored Imperials made a pair of first-inning runs stand up for a tense, 2-0 triumph Tuesday evening at Heywood Avenue Park. It knocked McLarens out of a double-loss elimination tournament. Sooke beat McLarens 9-2 Monday.

Sooke and Imps will play Thursday and Friday. A third game, if necessary, will be played Monday night with the series winner advancing to the Island finals against two up-Island entries.

Glen Langset was in fine form Tuesday. He blanked McLarens on four hits and struck out 10. Rival moundsman Jeff Hett came through with a fine effort after a shaky first inning.

Bob Sorenson's bases-loaded double gave Langset all the runs he needed.

Soccer School Carded At Mount View High

A top-flight English soccer coach will conduct a week-long clinic for Victoria and District booters Aug. 5-10.

Trevor Churchill, 35-year-old staff coach with the English Football Association, has been hired by the B.C. Soccer Commission to direct clinics in Victoria and Vancouver—the first of their kind in North America.

Vancouver's school will be of two weeks' duration.

Churchill, whose athletic background is impressive and varied, is being brought from England in an effort to improve coaching and physical fitness in all ranks of B.C. soccer.

City Athletes In B.C. Finals

A total of 361 athletes—134 girls and 207 boys—from all parts of B.C. will converge on Vernon Aug. 2 and 3 to take part in the Royal Canadian Legion's JOTP provincial track and field finals.

The athletes are winners of zone finals held around B.C. under the Junior Olympic Training Plan.

From the Victoria zone there will be six girls and nine boys making the trip to the interior. They are Denise Heineke, Sandra Motishaw, Robin Wood, Joanne Anderson, Doreen Braham, Carol Kitchen, Micky Woodruff, Mike Mills, Christopher Humble, Francis Andersen, Robert Masters, Ian Carmichael, Roger Halfhide, Ronald Aubrey and Carl Loveys.

The athletes will be billeted in Vernon schools, and meet officials ask that competitors bring sleeping bags because of a shortage of bedding.

Victoria Champ Tied For Junior Golf Lead

VANCOUVER — Gary Smith of Victoria, Doug Robb of Vancouver and Seattle's Danny Scott stepped off the first tee as a group at Seymour Golf Club this morning.

That was the threesome expected to produce the next B.C. junior golf champion.

They shared the 36-hole lead with one-under-par totals of 143 as the 54-hole provincial event headed for a climax today.

Scott, Washington State junior champ who recently got as far as the quarter-finals in the U.S. National Public Links tournament, carded a scintzing 35-44-69 for the best round of the second day. He had a 74 in the opening round.

Other Victorians were, for all practical purposes, out of the running. Ricky Kent was tied for 10th with rounds of 77 and 74; Jay Wilson and Noel Punfrey were tied for 18th with 156 total. Wilson, who carded an eagle on the 400-yard par-five 18th, had a 79 Tuesday while Punfrey came in with a 78.

Smith, 17-year-old Victoria City junior king from Uplands, was four under par after 30 holes, slipped a little on the last eight but still came up with a one-under 71. Robb, first-round leader with a 71, marked up a 72 Tuesday.

Vancouver's Wayne Vollmer, 72-73-145, and Gary Henderson of Seattle, 73-72-145, were next in line. Another Seattle swinger, Tom Tindall, followed with 72-75-147.

V.I. ROUNDUP

Hospital Delay
Blamed on Gov't

NANAIMO—A Nanaimo alderman has blamed the B.C. government for preventing the conversion of the old Nanaimo hospital into a chronic hospital.

Ald. John Cook, in a letter to city council, said the hospital board is powerless to go ahead with the conversion of the old hospital without Health Minister Eric Martin's approval and the assistance of the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service.

He said the board is prepared to proceed with converting the old hospital if matching government grants could be made available as promised.

He admitted the health minister had approved in principle the conversion of the old hospital. But, he added, many factors have changed since the earlier promises of conversion were made.

He said the most important change was the cost factor.

It would cost about $190,000 to renovate and improve the services in the building, he said.

NANAIMO—The flag problem has been settled in Nanaimo.

It started last week when

Murder Probe
Help Asked
By Mounties

NANAIMO (CP)—A team of RCMP investigators, apparently near a dead end in their investigation of a brutal murder, Tuesday issued another appeal for public assistance.

Police have only one good clue to the vicious murders: An uncommon model of a semi-automatic .22-calibre rifle.

They appealed for public aid in finding the owner of the rifle, which has been established as the weapon that killed Diane Phipps, 19, a practical nurse, and her sweetheart, Les Dixon, 19.

The two had parked at Piper Lagoon, the local lovers' lane, in darkness last Oct. 16.

The murderer crept up to the car, shot Dixon twice in the back of the head and abducted Diane.

Police surmised that the man held the terrified girl with one hand as he drove eight miles through the Vancouver Island city to a point northwest of the city limits.

OFF ROAD
Somehow — perhaps the girl jarred the steering wheel — the car struck a rock. At that spot, Diane was shot between the eyes.

Apparently unsatisfied that the girl was dead, the man beat her savagely with a rock, covered her body with dirt and parts of an old car and drove north to Long Lake.

There, he threw the Model 63 Winchester rifle into the water and disappeared.

Squads of RCMP conducted hundreds of investigations in a search for the killer. Then, last March 29, a boy skating on the ice of Long Lake found the rifle.

1940 MODEL

Efforts to trace the owner have failed. The rifle was made in 1940 and sold in 1942. It bears the serial number 41649A.

An RCMP spokesman said the force had no desire to alarm the public, but the possibility could not be ruled out that a man capable of such a brutal murder might kill again.

He said RCMP would interview anyone — in confidence, if desired — anywhere in Canada provided they felt they had some information to contribute to the investigation, particularly the ownership of the rifle.

150 Campers
Swingalong
With Singer

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
SHAWNIGAN LAKE—People of all ages from eight to 80 are learning to "relax through singing" this week at a camp organized by provincial archivist Willard Ireland.

But the leader of this relaxation movement is internationally-known Negro singer Charles King who conducts daily sing-songs in the arm-swinging style of a crusading missionary.

Sometimes he has his followers leaping up and down as they sing rousing Negro spirituals; at others he has them crooning softly in two-part harmony—or drawing deep breaths to get the tension out of their bodies.

"FARTHEST OUT"

Mr. King travels all over the United States applying these methods to high school children. Now, with his wife, Allie, and their two adopted daughters, Maria, 9, and Yvonne, 10, he is relaxing himself at "Camp Farthest Out", a week-long rally held by the lakeside in the Strathcona Lodge School for Girls.

Among the 150 campers are many visitors from the United States, including veteran Elmer Almor and his family from East Hartford, Connecticut.

ALL OVER U.S.

"We have camps like this all over the U.S.," Mr. Almor said, "but, as we wanted to visit Western Canada, we decided to join this group."

"Look around you at any of the people here and you'll see what it has done for them."

The campers certainly look happy and relaxed. There is singing at every meal, with lots of lively back chat between chairman Willard Ireland and his fellow campers, continuous laughter and a ready exchange of light-hearted leg-pulling.

Between meals and singing rallies, the campers go hiking around the lake, enjoy swimming and boating or play tennis and badminton.

SIDNEY VOTES TUESDAY ON BORDER EXTENSION

SIDNEY—Owner-electors of Sidney will vote Tuesday on a boundary extension for the village municipality.

The extension would add a half-block to the southern boundary, squaring the western boundary along East Saanich Road, and a large addition to the north including Roberts Point, Armstrong Point and a portion of Mill Point.

Residents in the surrounding area have petitioned council to be included in the village so sanitary facilities can be improved.

68 Youngsters

PESTICIDES 'BIOLOGICAL DYNAMITE'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government research specialist has told a Senate subcommittee that some pesticides sold on the open market can and do cause cancer and death.

Dr. W. C. Hueper, chief of the environmental section of the National Cancer Institute, called them "biological dynamite."

Challenging testimony that the risks have been exaggerated, Hueper cited Tuesday as examples of the dangers: A "serious epidemic of chronic arsenic poisoning and arsenic cancers" among German vineyard workers; and an "episode of accidental mass poisoning from hexachlor used in the processing of feed grain and introduced into the food supply of turkey."

He told the government operations subcommittee, which is holding hearings to determine whether stricter laws on use of pesticides are required, that there is a need for better policing and more research.

Sticky Time Faces Users Of Big Span

The provincial government is gluing Lions Gate Bridge to pioneer use of a synthetic for highway work.

Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi Tuesday announced plans to put one-way traffic on the busy bridge from Stanley Park in Vancouver's North Shore while the work is in progress.

The iron grid on the span has become exposed, creating a serious accident hazard in wet weather.

Mr. Gagliardi said it will be covered with epoxy resin to provide a non-skid surface.

Epoxy, a synthetic compound, is used chiefly in the manufacture of new glues with tremendous holding power.

THREE-YEAR HUNT

Mr. Gagliardi said the department searched three years before it found epoxy was the most suitable material to bond steel and concrete.

It has been tried on the Jacques Cartier Bridge in Quebec but this will be the first time it has been used on a major project.

Mr. Gagliardi said tenders will be called immediately and work will be done in late July and August because the epoxy must be applied in hot, dry weather.

He said he anticipated serious traffic problems during the job, which will take about a month.

The bridge will be one-way only during morning and evening rush hours.

In the mornings only North Shore traffic will be allowed, in the evenings only traffic from downtown Vancouver.

Other traffic will be forced to use the Second Narrows Bridge.

Is your dog a home-wrecker, too?

MILK-BONE satisfies the bone hunger of your dog

A dog needs to chew, and knows it. In the absence of a bone, even the best-trained dog will find something else to chew—often something he shouldn't. But there are few bones in today's kitchens. Many that are available are not safe or good for your dog. That's why the modern dog goes bone-hungry.

The answer is MILK-BONE—the biscuit with the real bone shape that makes wonderful chewing, without a real bone's tendency to splinter or upset the digestion. MILK-BONE also gives your dog all the important nourishment found in milk, meat, bone-meal and vegetables. Get MILK-BONE in the biscuit size that suits the size of your dog—regular or large.

ESKIMO ART GOES ABROAD

EDMONTON (CP)—Eskimo craftsmen have stuck their foot into international markets with a $7,000 sample sale of handicrafts to Italy.

Selling "distinctively Canadian" products, the market for the exclusive Eskimo lines are expected to be expanded throughout Europe and the United States in the future.

Vic Vokes, an employee of the northern affairs department says sales in 1962 of the Eskimo handicrafts totalled $750,000. In 1963 the volume was expected to double.

Mr. Vokes, who acts as marketing and retailing officer for the Eskimos says "if you're looking for something distinctively Canadian and you're willing to pay a little more this is what you want."

Dief Unhappy About Sale Of Portrait

OTTAWA (CP)—Opposition Leader Diefenbaker is reported to be somewhat less than happy about having his portrait by Stephen Ward bought by a wealthy Calgary businessman as a present for him.

But Mr. Diefenbaker is keeping mum on the subject.

He declined comment when asked by reporters about the purchase in London of his portrait sketched by the society osteopath now on trial.

The purchase was made by Ross Henderson of Calgary for £262 10s ($787), and Mr. Henderson was quoted as saying he wanted to make Mr. Diefenbaker a present of it.

A spokesman for Mr. Diefenbaker said he had not been in touch with Mr. Henderson, and had received no offer of the portrait from him.

Mr. Diefenbaker sat for the sketch while visiting London as prime minister. It was commissioned by the Illustrated London News.

Sources close to Mr. Diefenbaker said he was not entirely pleased with the likeness and not greatly interested in having it. He was also reported to feel that Mr. Henderson, a former president of the Alberta Conservative Association, paid too high a price for it.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor breath". Get FASTEETH at drug counters everywhere. Advt

RCAF Adds Voodoos, Sub Kill, Rescue Show to Golden Hawks Thriller

The biggest aerial show ever staged here will be seen off the Beacon Hill waterfront Aug. 16, the RCAF announced today.

Featured in the sky-filling spectacle will be the Golden Hawks, one of the finest jet-aerobatic teams in the world; the solo stunting of the Red Knight; a flypast by super-sonic CF-101 Voodoos from Comox; a water-rescue demonstration, and an anti-submarine warfare exercise carried out by a Canadian Maritime Command patrol aircraft.

As ground support for the big aerial show, the 56-piece band of the RCAF training command, based at Edmonton, will stage two performances in the Beacon Hill bandshell. First concert will be at 1 p.m., and a second at 7 p.m. The air portion of Air Force Day will start at 1:30 p.m., with two Voodoos from 409 Interceptor Squadron, RCAF Station Comox, screaming down the length of the Dallas Road waterfront.

Following the flypast, members of the Search and Rescue School at RCAF Station Vancouver will demonstrate a water-to-air rescue off Finlayson Point, using an Albatross aircraft and a Vertol H-21 helicopter. The aircraft are attached to 121 Communications and Rescue Flight, on 24-hour call for operations anywhere in B.C.

Next on the program will be a simulated hunt-and-kill operation against an "enemy" submarine, ending with the dropping of depth charges.

Following the ASW exercise, the Red Knight—Flying Officer J. W. (Bud) Morin, a flying instructor at Portage la Prairie—who will fly his bright red T-33 Silver Star jet trainer through intricate aerobatics.

His 12-minute show begins with a roll off the top of a loop. Other manoeuvres include a Cuban-eight; clover leaf; hesitation, rhabarb and vertical rolls; loops and inverted flying.

The famed Golden Hawks will close the show—and send the anticipated crowd of thousands home gasping with wonder—with a 40-minute display in their F-86 Sabre jets.

The team of seven will perform a unique sequence of tight formation flying plus high-speed solo aerobatics.

Formed in 1959 to observe the 35th anniversary of the RCAF and the 50th anniversary of powered flight in Canada, the Golden Hawks have given more than 250 performances before an estimated 13,000,000 spectators in Canada and the U.S.

The Aug. 16 show in Victoria will be repeated at RCAF Station Comox Aug. 17, designated as Comox Day.

Arthur Mayse

The sport fisherman who boosts his income by a licensed tapping of the salmon runs has never been popular among the commercials. He, on the other hand, sees no reason why he shouldn't peddle his catch, especially since many a tail-poled troller's master supplements his take with a winter job ashore.

In this dispute, I'm forced to the conclusion that the trollerman, if not the purse-seiner and night-fishing gill netter, has a valid case.

His investment in boat and gear is heavy. His job is tough, hazardous, and in these years of drastic competition, increasingly speculative. He needs the protection of a licensing system which will guard his livelihood from casual invasion by the man whose year-round living is assured.

At the same time, I don't think it would be fair to bar the seasonal hand from bridging workless months by selling his catch.

The right to do so is traditional on the British Columbia coast. There are prosperous men in Victoria today who once kept themselves off the relief rolls by rowboat fishing.

From early-summer blue-back season through to the autumn rains, the rowboat fishermen used to follow the salmon among the islands of the Gulf. Their camps ranged from tent setups for the plutocrats to the casual shelter of a driftwood hutch or a frayed tarp slung over poles.

Boats were what a man could afford. Ideally, he equipped himself with a narrow, double-ended carvel which slipped easily through the water. In a pinch, though, he'd settle for any beatup cabbage crate which would keep him afloat.

His gear varied with the locality. Spoons, spinners, and even the big, gay polar-hair flies we call bucktails were used on occasion. But herring minnows or needle-fish were the standard bait, and from Salt Spring clear up to the Seymours, the mark of the handliner was the needletoothed herring rake jutting past his craft's stem.

A typical lower coast combination was a heavily-weighted "leg-line" for deep-running spring salmon, and for coho, a Calcutta cane pole to which was taped a wooden Nottingham reel.

When you tagged a fish, you leaned back on the supple pole and blocked him in as fast as you could grind the reel handles. Bluebacks, you swung on board. Big springs, you might gaff. But coho you netted in the herring-mesh bag lashed to a sapling frame which was another handliner's trademark.

Speed, when the fish were booming, was essential. You rowed through weeks of scant fishing, cheered by the dream of the jackpot run, the 90-fish tides, the coho bonanza that would parlay your buck-a-year licence into a winter stake.

When a big run struck in, men turned themselves into fish-catching machines. They killed salmon till their boats rode low in the water, then unloaded and returned to the massacre. By dusk of such a day, the handliner was groggy with fatigue, he and his boat filthy with scales and blood.

I know a sensitive man who cares more for music than for anything or anyone on this earth except his wife. He came home from the last war spiritually shattered.

His wife was an upstart girl. She had never gone rowboat fishing, but she'd seen the handliners often enough, fetching their catch to a packer or hitching onto a passing log boom for a tow to new salmon grounds.

"We'll go handlining," she decided; and took her husband off to the islands.

For a week they caught no salmon. Then an Indian troller took pity on their ignorance and showed them how to knuckle a raked minnow on the hook so it would twirl with the proper comethier.

They took fish after that. When they went back to the city in October, my friend had put his troubles behind him.

The rowboat fisherman's day is over now, his species all but extinct. Here and there, though, up and down the coast, men still look to the salmon runs for a lift when times are hard.

I have no sympathy for the well-employed sport and Sunday. Equally at home on water with single ski or bare feet, Bill is one of meet-sponsoring Victoria Aqua Ski Club preparing all this week for the show.

TOWING A PLUME OF SPRAY Vancouver Island water-ski-champion Bill Hughes of Victoria works out on slalom course at Shawnigan Lake in preparation for B.C. Open Championship this Saturday.

Ski Contest Warmup Knockout Affair

By IAIN HUNTER

All this week members of Victoria Aqua Ski Club are literally knocking themselves out on the surface of Shawnigan Lake.

They are determined to put on a good show for spectators at the B.C. Open waterskiing championships this weekend.

Champion skiers from all over Canada and the U.S. will take part in the meet which will be run from Mountain View Lodge on the east side of the lake Saturday and Sunday.

Although the out-of-towners are masters of trick skiing, slalom and jumping, local veterans will not be outdone.

And they have taken some pretty hard knocks and burned up to 45 gallons of gas a day in practicing for the show.

They were hard at it when a photographer and reporter went to the lake Tuesday.

Club president Chuck Dumas has built himself a kite which he hopes to be able to fly during the meet.

Of aluminum frame with a dacron sail, the kite is designed to lift him upwards of 30 feet off the water behind a boat.

NOSE-DIVE

But in gusty weather in the past Chuck has taken some unexpected flights, and more than once has plummeted in a tangle of sail and harness to the hard water surface.

"Call me chicken if you like," he said cheerfully, swimming out from under his upside-down kite, "but I'm not doing it if there's any wind."

Bill Hughes' specialty is skiing barefoot, and his prowess in this event has won him membership in the American society for champions.

On Tuesday it was choppy at Shawnigan, but Bill leaped off his single slalom ski barefooted behind a boat going 38 miles an hour. A geyser of spray signified he had landed on both feet squarely, and the boat was up to 40 miles an hour.

A series of lesser watersports as if a giant was skipping boulders along the lake announced he had somersaulted.

"You just learn to fall," he assured worried onlookers, shrugging his shoulders.

He said that while choppy water causes him to "foe in," he had suffered burns on the bottom of his feet after sking long distances on a dead calm surface.

Cliff Johnson, the club's best jumper, demonstrated his technique on home-made skis at the six-foot ramp.

55-FOOT JUMP

Swooping on to the ramp at 50 to 60 mph, he has jumped a clear 95 feet, and this weekend intended reaching the 100-foot mark.

But Tuesday his new skis stuck on the dry surface of the ramp and he came down at full speed upside down, knocking himself unconscious.

Minutes later he soared again off the ramp which had been watered down. This time he landed on his feet.

Five club members also have prepared a human pyramid for the show Saturday and Sunday.

70 California Square Dancers Coming Aug. 18

Seventy southern California square dancers will arrive here Aug. 18 via ferry from Port Angeles.

The dancers will bring letters of friendship and goodwill to Premier Bennett and Mayor R. B. Wilson from California Governor Edmund Brown and Mayor Yorty of Los Angeles.

In the group will be a team of teen-aged exhibition and precision square dancers, the Dudes and Dolls of San Fernando Valley, who have represented their state at dance functions throughout the U.S.

They expect to land at about 6 p.m., and will hold a dance with Victorians at Esquimalt Junior High School that evening.

THE WHEELS OF JUSTICE SPUN FAST

Three hours after Stanley J. Petne, 3252 Irma, had his licence suspended Tuesday he was back in magistrate's court charged with driving while disqualified.

Magistrate William Ostler sentenced him to 10 days in jail saying it was "hard to imagine more contemptuous conduct."

Constable Thomas Anthony was in court when the magistrate disqualified Petne from driving for a speeding offence. Then, when the officer was returning from the Saanich police station to the city, he saw Petne driving along Douglas St.

Cons. Anthony obtained a warrant and arrested Petne at his home.

Cons. Anthony told the court both he and Constable Albert Harwood had advised Petne after his licence was withdrawn that "whatever you do, don't drive your car."

Driver Fined $165 After Hit-Run Crash

A man convicted of criminal negligence three years ago, and impaired driving earlier this year, was fined a total of $165 for two more motoring offences when he appeared in city police court today.

Edgar L. Fenton, Drake Hotel, pleaded guilty to careless driving and failing to remain at the scene of an accident.

He drove into the rear of a stopped car on Esquimalt Road and the impact knocked it into the rear of another car stopped ahead of it.

Fenton left the scene but was trailed by an eyewitness. When arrested on Fort St. he told police the brakes on his car had failed.

100-Year-Old Survives Car Crash

A 100-year-old Chinese woman, Mrs. J. Wong, 954 Mason, was the only person who escaped unhurt in a two-car collision at Mills Road and the Old Pat Bay Highway Tuesday afternoon.

Seven others went to hospital and one of them, Mrs. Nellie Stent, of West Summerland, B.C., was seriously hurt. She is reported to be in slightly improved condition today at Rest Haven Hospital.

Mrs. Stent was with her two children in a car driven by her husband, Herbert, when it was in collision with a car driven by Miss Eunice Peters, 1120 Pembroke.

The Stents were proceeding south on McDonald to Victoria at the start of their holiday. Mr. Stent received a head cut and the two Stent children, Alan 12, and Peter, 10, were also slightly hurt. All were released from hospital after treatment.

Miss Peters and one of her passengers, Mrs. Olive Rogers, of North Vancouver, are reported in satisfactory condition at Rest Haven Hospital.

Another passenger, Miss Mary Baxter, 956 Fairfield, is in good condition at St. Joseph's Hospital. The fourth passenger was Mrs. Wong.

'Only the Best' Good Enough For Burglars

Thieves who broke into Meadwell's Radio & Electric store at 2651 Douglas Street overnight Tuesday, "took only the best items in the store" according to Mrs. Edith Meadwell.

Total value of the missing articles is estimated at $1,000. Entry was gained by knocking out a panel in a rear door.

Missing from the store are seven mantel radios, nine transistor radios, a tape recorder and a portable television set.

'GREAT SPIRIT LINGERS' SAYS ENV OY

Gandhi's Influence Still Felt

The late Mohandas Gandhi, assassinated in 1948, is directly responsible for the emancipation of India's women, Chandra Shekhar Jha, Indian high commissioner to Canada, said here today.

Mr. Jha, appointed high commissioner to Canada in July, 1962, revealed that India's divorce grounds are now broader than Canada's since they include desertion. But no divorce is made absolute until two years after it is granted.

He said the 20th-Century Fox film of Gandhi's assassination has not yet been shown in India for fear it would stir up old hatreds, but Mr. Jha saw it in Ottawa and found it "technically good."

'FORCE WITH FORCE'

"I met Mr. Gandhi briefly during his last fast, before he was murdered," the high commissioner said. "There was a tremendous sadness in his eyes and I think he knew the end was near. But his faith made it impossible for him to meet force with force."

"He died in that faith but his influence continues."

Visiting Western Canada for the first time, Mr. Jha and his beautiful wife are tremendously impressed by British Columbia and its potentialities.

"Alas, we cannot buy as much from Canada as we would wish because of our limited foreign exchange currency," the high commissioner said. "From B.C. we import mainly metals, minerals, newsprint and wood pulp."

"From India, B.C. and Canada import huge quantities of food, with carpets, silks and diesel engines. We are now interested in buying nuclear reactors of the Candu type from Canada."

Mr. Jha said conditions among India's 450,000,000 people, of many different religions and creeds, are comparatively peaceful, "but it is not in mortals to live in absolute peace."

Before his appointment as high commissioner, Mr. Jha was India's ambassador to the United Nations for nearly four years.

"It is fascinating work," he said, "but always a great strain on the constitution. You need cast-iron nerves and a philosophical outlook to outlive the tensions and anxieties."

This afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Jha were visiting Duncan before returning to Ottawa.

NEVER TRY TO PLAY JACKS ON A HOT SIDEWALK!

DEAR ABBY . . .

Try Appreciating It—And Them!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Why do people think that because you have a large family, your yard is a public playground? Right now 12 kids are playing ball in my backyard, and only seven of them are mine. The children aren't allowed to play in other yards because they ruin the grass. I really don't mind, but it wouldn't hurt some of the other parents to share the noise with me. At night they ask me to turn on my yard lights so they can play after supper. When, oh, when will I have peace and quiet again, JUST WONDERING

DEAR JUST: Too soon. And you can take my word for it. Count your blessings. Your children are occupied in healthy, wholesome play, and you don't have to worry about where they are—or with whom. Anybody can raise grass. It takes special qualities to raise children.

DEAR ABBY: I am 14 and my mother and I have been fussing over something very silly. We were all at the ball game and I was with a very nice boy. He took my hand. My mother then leaned over and told me to quit holding hands with him. Abby, couldn't she have waited until I got home? She had to make a big scene in front of everybody. I don't see anything wrong with a boy and girl holding hands at a ball game, do you?

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: Your mother could have told you quietly to quit holding hands, but I think she was right to tell you. A display (even a minor one) of affection is out of place in public.

Dear ABBY: Someone suggested to "Ma" (who was upset at seeing "Pa's" choppers grinning at her from the dresser top while Pa was outside mowing the lawn) that she "steal" Pa's choppers and leave in their place $3.20 from the "Good Fairy." Well, a set of dentures contains only 28 teeth. So at the rate of 10¢ per tooth, Pa should be left only $2.80. Sincerely,

DENTAL ASSISTANT

CONFIDENTIAL TO PAUL: Never drink on an empty wallet, baby.

Tell your troubles to Abby. For a personal, unpublished reply, please send a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

WHY GROW OLD?

Live By Josephine's Ten Commandments for Health

A reader writes, "Enclosed is done during the day. This is the article outlining your Ten Commandments for Health." Will you please reprint this? I am sure many others would find it helpful and I would like a fresh copy for my scrapbook."

1. Good nutrition. Learn what the body requires for best health and prolonged youthfulness. Study nutrition. The things nutritionists know and are learning are some of the most exciting in modern life.

2. Try to spend at least an hour a day outdoors, walking, swimming, playing tennis or golf or riding horseback. Walking, swimming and golf can be enjoyed at any age if you have normal health.

3. Get enough sleep. Practically everyone needs at least seven hours regularly. Individuals differ. Some feel much better with more sleep.

4. Take special exercises for 15 or 20 minutes a day. These beautify the figure and are beneficial to health.

5. Drink at least six glasses of fluid daily.

6. If at all possible plan short rest periods during the day. This will banish fatigue and do away with that end of the day feeling. You will get just as much, and probably more work

Fish and Fruit

Cooked flaked fish and tangy oranges and pineapple combine in a crunchy cool salad specially aimed at lagging summer appetites. This recipe for fruit 'n' fillet salad makes four servings. Lightly toss together 2 cups flaked cooked fish fillets, ¼ cup chopped green pepper, ¼ cup chopped celery, ½ cup drained, canned pineapple tidbits and ½ cup drained orange segments cut into chunks. Blend together ½ cup mayonnaise, 1 teaspoon curry powder, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 tablespoon juice drained from the pineapple and another tablespoon juice drained from the oranges. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Toss this dressing with the fish mixture; chill thoroughly, then serve in lettuce cups.

sible even in cases of long standing.

8. Deep breathing is extremely relaxing. It calms tension. This will be useful if you are the nervous type.

9. Try not to worry. Do not indulge in negative thoughts. Concentrate on positive ones. This is a little fountain of youth in itself.

10. Try to live in a relaxed manner. Plan your life so that you are not rushed and pushed all day long.

Know All The 'Ropes' About New Fall Jewelry Fashions

By PENNY SAVER

Women will be carrying ropes this fall. Not the kind you use to lasso a man—although many may wish they were—but the kind you loop around your own neck to add glamor to your outfits.

According to clerk in jewelry store I visited today, these colored rope necklaces are all the thing for fall. About two feet long, doubled, they will wind at least twice around your neck, so that you can take your choice of how to wear them. There are colors galore and all are $2.

Pearls are out as far as these rope necklaces go but they are way, way in when it comes to shorter necklaces. And in these shorter types, there is a new length called the "matinee." Hurrah for some designer who finally realized what a nuisance it is to have a lovely necklace that continually falls inside the cowl neckline or even loose bateau neckline of your dress and hence doesn't show.

This new length means they stay outside your dress and it is worthwhile wearing a necklace after all!

Necklaces in varying number of strands in fine or ordinary size pearls are available at inexpensive prices of $1 or $2.

Expanding bracelets in gold or silver will be smart fall wear too, at $2 each. They come in various widths and patterns. Some in dull finish, others bright and shiny, and still others in a combination of the two finishes. If you are not a dangling bangle fan, you'll like the way these stay on your arm. They're nice to wear on long gloves, too.

For teen-agers the perfect gift is still a medallion necklace that has their initial on one side of pendant and a mirror on the back. Other people can identify them by the initial side, and they can identify themselves by the mirror! Price is just $1. To go with these are initial brooches that are also just $1.

If You Like, Add a Lining To These Unlined Knits

"Dear Eunice Farmer:

"Please help me decide what to do with cotton and wool knits? Many of the ready-made garments aren't lined; I do prefer a lining unless there is some reason for not using one. Please help me with this."

Mrs. J. W.

Dear Mrs. J. W.: The reason most knits aren't lined is because a softer effect is desired in the garment. There is no reason they can't be lined however. I usually prefer a very fine China silk for a lining because it will retain the shape of your garment without any extra bulk. Of course, the biggest advantage of lining is that the hem marks won't show.

While we're on the subject of knits, be sure to use a slightly larger machine stitch and hold the fabric firmly (pulling slightly) as you stitch. This will give the seam the same elasticity as the fabric and prevent a pulled look at the seams as well as breaking the stitches.

BE SMART—

A trick for you from Phyllis McGuire, one of the famous singing McGuire Sisters. She takes fur eyelashes (everybody's wearing them now!), cuts them shorter than usual and wears two pairs for a devastating, but natural look. (Fur lashes last and last and last, you know!)

Given in Marriage by Brother

Heather Eugene Robson was given in marriage by her brother, Allan Robson, when she exchanged vows recently with Donald Lavern Johnson in Seventh Day Adventist Church.

Pastor A. Spent officiated at the ceremony and the church was decorated with baskets of summer flowers.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. J. T. Robson, Victoria, and the late Flt. Lt. Robson and Mr. and Mrs. F. Johnson of Smith's Inlet, B.C.

The bride chose a floor-length gown of peau de soie with lace overskirt. Bodice was styled with bateau neckline and elbow-length sleeves. Her headdress of white carnations and yellow roses held a filmy shoulder-length veil and yellow roses and white carnations were in her bouquet.

Misses Linda and Wendy Miles were bridesmaids in matching floral chiffon over blue taffeta gowns. Like the bride, they carried yellow roses and white carnations. Their headdresses were of white net and taffeta bows.

Little Miss Aravella Penner was a dainty flower girl in a frilled white taffeta frock. She carried a basket of white carnations, yellow daisies and yellow roses.

Best man was Arland Robson while ushers were John and Peter Penner.

O. Lascelles proposed the toast at a reception in Olde England Inn. The bride's table was centred with a three-tier cake made by her grandmother.

The honeymoon was spent motoring through British Columbia on the way to the couple's new home in Red Deer, Alta.

Bride's travelling ensemble was a blue Italian wool suit and white accessories.

Afternoon tea was served at tables on the veranda and in the farmhouse living room by Mrs. A. O. Lacy, Mrs. F. E. Olsson, Mrs. R. Alton and Mrs. H. B. Dickens. Home baking was sold by Mrs. A. ## Richardson-Savannah Vows Heard in St. John's Church

Canon A. J. Williams officiated at the afternoon ceremony in St. John's Anglican Church that united Yvonne Frances Savannah and Dr. Eric Harvey Richardson.

White daisies, pink roses and carnations decorated the church for the occasion. David Fisher of the Victoria Symphony Orchestra gave a trumpet solo during the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. F. E. Willis, 921 1/2 Fort Street, and the late Lieut. Willis. Groom's parents are Dr. and Mrs. S. R. Richardson, 4497 Arsen Place.

Robert E. Burns, an old family friend, gave the bride in marriage. They entered the church to the strains of Purcell's Wedding March. Lace and diamante trim enhanced the scalloped neckline and hem of the bride's short-length dress of pink satin. The toning veil misted from three pink roses. Pink Rapture roses were in her sheaf bouquet. For jewelry the bride chose an heirloom necklace of pearls and amethysts and culture pearl earrings, gift of the groom.

Mrs. David Johnson, Seattle, was matron of honor in a short gown of pink peau de sole trimmed with a fabric rose at the waistline. A tiny pink veil skirted her peau de sole pill box. Pink and white carnations were in her colonial bouquet.

Full-skirted dresses of blue organdy and matching headbands were worn by bridesmaids, the Misses Anne and Jane Savannah and three-year-old flower girl, Susy Hempton, San Salvadore. All carried tiny colonial bouquets of pink carnations.

William Graham was best man and ushering guests were David Johnson, Seattle; E. J. Hempton, San Salvadore; Dr.

Patrick Laundry, Vancouver, and the groom's brother, Dr. Alan Richardson, Prince George.

Hugh Graham proposed the toast to the bride at a reception in Olde England Inn. Other out-of-town guests were Mrs. Hempton, San Salvadore, and Mrs. Laundry, Vancouver. Leaving on a honeymoon trip to Harrison Hot Springs, Banff and Lake Louise, the bride donned an Italian beige knit suit, trimmed in brown; toning model straw hat and accessories and brown and yellow corsage.

Golden Success

From the Outer Hebrides, the scattered chain of islands off the northwest coast of Scotland, halfway between London and the Arctic Circle, in open competition with the entire world, four fabrics woven on the typical cottage looms of the croft-weavers of the Isle of Lewis, have won four gold medals at the International Textile Exposition at Sacramento, Calif. Coemo, the brand name of a firm which was unknown to the world of fashion a short two years ago, is the only British firm to win four gold medals although British entries won 39 of the 92 awards. One of the prize-winning fabrics was woven of pure wool and lured by 18-year-old Roderick McKeiver, who lives in one of the most remote and inaccessible crofts on the Isle of Lewis.

It continued: "While other countries continue to increase surveillance of all types of food stuff, including animal feeds and total diets, milk is the only food at present monitored in Canada."

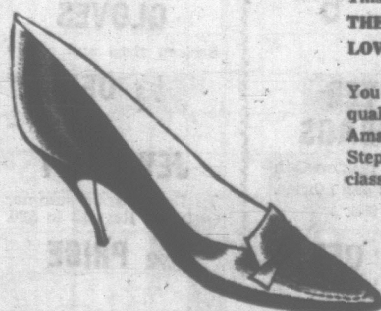

Cost of monitoring was originally estimated at 10 cents a quart but the brief pointed out that this has "now been reduced to 1/2 cent a quart" and described a new process as "exceedingly simple."

The brief panned the government for its "apparent lack of interest" and warned of major fallout effects during spring and summer of this year due to increased amount of nuclear weapon testing by Russia and the United States.

Brief was presented by VOW president, Mrs. C. B. (Kay) Macpherson and group's research chairman, Dr. Ursula Franklin, both of Toronto.

Sally Ebbs-Canavan Wears Classic Gown

Classically styled gown of peau de soie, adorned at the waist by a flat bow, was worn by Sally Irene Ebbs-Canavan for her recent marriage to Earl Goldwin Stewart. Bell-skirt was in short length and the bodice had a scoop neckline and long-fitted sleeves. A four-tier elbow-length veil misted from a headpiece centred with a bow. She carried a colonial bouquet of red roses and white carnations with trailing white satin streamers dotted with rosebuds.

Canon H. Butler officiated at the ceremony in St. George the Martyr Church. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. George Davis, 2070 Carrick Street, and Mr. and Mrs. Percy Stewart, 2571 Musgrave Street. Mr. Davis gave his stepdaughter in marriage.

Standing baskets of white gladioli and yellow carnations were in the church and pews were marked by white roses and white streamers.

George Songhurst, and bridesmaid, Miss Judy Anne Mc-

Elegant Clothes Shown In Quiet Balmain Manner

PARIS (UPI)—Designer Pierre Balmain presented his fall-winter line in the Paris style parade Tuesday with a collection in his usual quiet style. No matter what other designers do, Balmain continues to make elegant clothes that could be worn by queens or (rich) housewives in any city for 15 years and always be in perfect taste.

One of his few changes was to banish bare arms instead, his cocktail dresses and some afternoon dresses had cap sleeves.

Many of the dresses were in a "princess style"—gently flaring skirt, waist only slightly indicated, with a bow or tiny half-belt placed under the bustline. Balmain quickly abandoned the puffed-up shoulder he tried last season. Tuesday's suit and coats had a natural shoulder.

Some of his coats had a wide sleeve. Most were cut fuller in the back, pointing up the fact that Paris virtually abolished the fitted, Redingote coat this season. His coats usually had tiny, stand-up collars.

UP AND DOWN Some suit jackets were to the hipline, others were nipped off at the waist, and all hung loose. Suit sleeves were narrow and to the wrist and skirts narrow and just covering the knees.

The tall Balmain models who casually dragged their mink coats down the runway all wore large pearl choker necklaces and large pearl button earrings. Even cocktail and evening outfits were complimented by mink tams with a wind-swept look.

Examples of the Balmain line:

—A purple tweed loose (but not billowing) coat worn over a white wool slender shift dress with cap sleeves and tiny three-inch long leather "belt" over the stomach.

—A slim black crepe short cocktail dress with a soft black leather top sparkling with jet beads and sequins.

—A boxy reversible flannel coat, grey on one side and caramel-colored on the other, with a tiny stand-up Chinese-style collar. The coat was worn over a grey-and-caramel checked suit. The skirt was narrow and cinched with a brown leather belt proving that Balmain will keep any style as long as it is tasteful. The hip-length jacket sported lapels and pockets. Underneath that, the damp-looking model on this hot July day wore a caramel-colored sweater.

DRESS OF FUR

—A high-waisted narrow dress of white broadtail fur, topped by a narrow buttonless coat of black broadtail.

—A pink and grey tweed boxy coat lined with beaver.

—A black velvet theatre suit, its short boxy jacket trimmed with mink collar and cuffs. The blouse was black chiffon.

—A deep strawberry red net short shift dress sprinkled with strawberry sequins, a velvet sash in the same red marking the high waistline. Underneath, a pink silk lining.

—A narrow, ankle-length strapless black velvet evening gown worn with a gigantic jacket of huge taffeta loops.

of white smocked nylon posed over pink and yellow taffeta respectively. Their miniature veils were held by toning pill-box headpieces and they carried colonial bouquets of carnations en tone with their gowns.

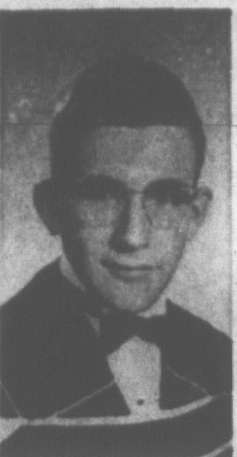

Jack Smith was best man and Ken Ebbs-Canavan, the usher.

At a reception in the Tally Ho Motor Hotel, baskets of white gladioli and yellow carnations flanked the head table which was centred with a three-tier cake trimmed with pink roses. Guests danced to organ music of Reg Stone.

George Songhurst proposed the toast.

For a honeymoon trip to Seattle, the bride chose a two-piece green Italian knit suit with black accessories and white gardenia.

Couple are living at 2590 Esplanade.

Miss Carolyn Judd, daughter of Mrs. Eva Judd, Prince Rupert, B.C., and Mr. Edward Tryon Osborn, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Osborn of Vernon, B.C., will be united in marriage on August 5 at 1 p.m., in Holy Trinity Church, Patricia Bay. Miss Judd is a 1963 graduate of Royal Jubilee Hospital and Mr. Osborn is a graduate in agriculture from University of British Columbia this year. (Mr. Judd's photo by Campbells, Vancouver.)

Nanaimo and Back in 39 Hours?

ALAN VALIANT
"non-stop"

Earl Speakman, an 18-year-old cross-country runner, will join Alan Valiant in his assault against a world non-stop walking record of 121 miles.

The pair, former teammates on Victoria High School cross-country teams, plan to hike to Nanaimo and back—a distance of 138 miles—starting at 6 a.m., Aug. 1, from the Town and Country shopping centre.

They hope to do it in 39 hours. Biggest problem facing the two walkers will be the Malahat.

"I'm going out there first to size it up," Alan said. I want to see how fast I can make it up."

Even after a walker has attained the Malahat's summit his expanded leg muscles could seize up on the way down.

To guard against this, Valiant has been sprinting up and down stairs leading to the beach near his Dallas Road home for 40 minutes daily without stopping.

In addition, he has been soaking his feet in salt water for 15 minutes per day in an effort to prevent blisters.

His footwear will consist of ordinary canvas running shoes. He plans to eat honey and drink water while on the move.

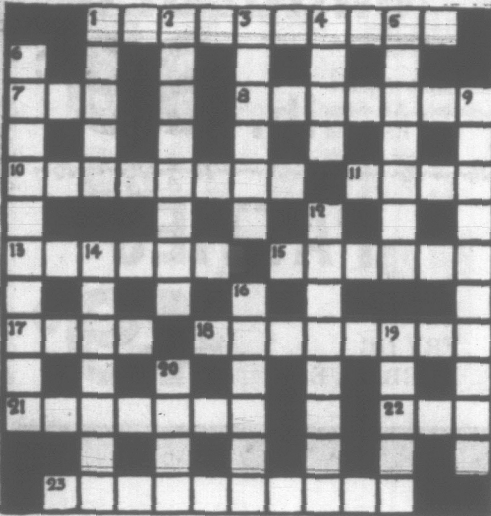

Other problems Valiant expects he and Speakman will encounter along the route are the glare of the sun hitting the pavement and automobiles coming up the Malahat at night with headlights on high beam.

"If one of us gets a stone in his shoe he can't stop to take it out. It's non-stop all the way," he said.

Valiant was the winner of a 50-mile walkathon last spring in which Speakman placed third, walking on a sprained ankle.

SOLUTION FRIDAY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a 10-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia.

Andy sends a complete, 29-volume set of World Book Encyclopedia to Richard Dudley, 10, Toronto, Ont., Canada, for his question:

Why is ice lighter than water?

Imagine what would happen if ice were heavier than water. Every winter layers of solid ice would sink to the bottom of the seas and rivers. It would stay cool down there, and the summer sun would be unable to melt it. Next winter, more ice would sink to the bottom. In time, the oceans and rivers would be frozen solid almost to the top.

The bulk of a drifting iceberg is below the water. When you see the pale mountain of ice from a ship, it looks like a floating city with sheer cliffs and lofty, green-grey pinnacles. It is massive. But there is always nine times more ice below the surface of the sea. We can say that an ounce of ice is bigger than an ounce of water or that ice is lighter than water. We can also say that water is denser than ice. Density takes our minds

Molecules Slow Down

As water reaches its freezing point, the streaming molecules slow down. When the water becomes ice, the particles of matter are frozen in a stiff lattice-work. The loose molecules cannot fit tightly together in the frozen state, so the solid ice is riddled with tiny holes. Liquid water is denser than solid ice because its molecules are more crowded, so there are more molecules in a cupful of water than there are in a cupful of ice.

The volume of an object is the amount of space it occupies. Density is the amount of matter packed into a certain volume, and all matter is made from atoms and molecules. The density of ice is .917, or about nine-tenths the density of water.

An iceberg floats because it is made of lighter material than the water around it. It is almost, but not quite, as heavy as an equal volume of water. The fact that nine-tenths as dense as water. The streaming molecules in liquid water pack close together. In ice, there are spaces throughout the lattice of frozen molecules.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—The Sick, Sick, Sick Sixties seem to be getting sicker—in London at least—but wicked old Broadway has taken a turn for the normal and, I tell you, there's hope for some of this generation getting to Heaven yet.

As we head into another theatre season—Mary Martin, Dennis O'Keefe, Janis Paige, Claudette Colbert and Cyril Ritchard are rehearsing for it now—it's clear that Broadway has rejected the four-letter school of the drama.

"Have you noticed that all the playwrights dealing in shock had quick flops last season?" I was asked at lunch at the Lambs Club by the much-respected thespian, Alan Mowbray.

"Tennessee Williams, Lillian Hellman, William Inge—their shows didn't last. Instead of their shows, we have a lot of clean comedies around Broadway... like 'Never Too Late', 'Mary, Mary'... you'll pardon me for mentioning my own show, 'Enter Laughing'."

301 MOVIES

Demanding that the waiter bring him another vodka, Mr. Mowbray, veteran of 301 movies, a grandfather, a past commander of a Legion post, a one-time war hero, declared courageously:

"I think people are turning from four-letter words to entertainment. In about seven years, of course, the people will be back to the four-letter words."

His jelly-like laugh dismissed it with that—yet I recalled only a couple of seasons ago mentioning that nearly all B-way shows had one lewd lady character.

"But," I said, "what about

"What's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?"

"Oh, now, listen," he chided me. "I was waiting to be shocked. And all of a sudden the curtain went down. I've been to stag parties, you know. But this was rather like a Girl Scout trying to say something rude to attract attention."

The amazing truth is that this coming season's shows apparently deal with subjects such as Santa Claus, labor leaders, old-time actresses, Louis Nizer, and Martin Luther! We've even got gospel saloons!

"What," as somebody was saying with a sigh the other night at Sardi's, "is our old indecent and wicked Broadway coming to?"

THE MIDNIGHT EARL

Jackie Gleason's put his Peckskill roundhouse up for sale (it cost $650,000) with Previews, Inc. Robert Wagner arrived TWA and confirmed that he'll marry Marion Doren, Stanley's ex-CBS says the tempest-in-a-teapot about "Beverly Hills" and Irene ("Granny") Ryan is over. She got a nice raise and is working happily still in a hospital, "Eat cabbage—it'll kill your virus!"

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: The average American makes sure his car is working—whether he is or not.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: A good architect makes an old house look better just by talking about the price of a new one.—Changing Times.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "It's a shame that when success turns a person's head it doesn't also wring his neck just a little."—Grayson County (Ky.) News.

EARL'S PEARLS: Since credit cards, people have stopped worrying about tomorrow—unless, of course, it's the 30th of the month.

A minister who plays golf always grumbles "Aswan!" after a bad shot (relates J. Hyde Sweet). Aswan is the biggest dam in the world... That's earl, brother.

TEST BAN

Will Senate Balk?

WASHINGTON (AP)—An uncertain reception in the U.S. Senate awaits a nuclear test ban treaty that American sources say is all but completed in Moscow.

State Secretary Dean Rusk and disarmament agency Director William C. Foster sought to blaze a path for the treaty Tuesday by showing a draft of the proposed agreement to the Senate foreign relations committee.

Afterward, committee Chairman J. William Fulbright, Arkansas Democrat, said it was possible the Senate would approve it this session but declined to go so far as to predict that would happen.

Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois would only predict that the treaty would set off lively debate.

After the briefing by Rusk and Foster, Fulbright made these points:

1. No committee member opposed the limited test ban during the closed session, but no member had committed himself to support the treaty nor had Rusk requested this.
2. The test ban "is not yet final." U.S. negotiator W. Averell Harriman has yet to inform it—certifying what the negotiators agreed to—and then it must be brought to Washington for governmental consideration before formal signing.
3. After Harriman initials the agreement, the committee expects to have an opportunity to study it for some days before the signing.
4. Then—if the consultations with the senators and among interested Washington federal agencies favor the draft—arrangements will be completed for a formal signing.

'France Won't Quit'

PARIS (Reuters)—The Gaullist newspaper La Nation says France would continue nuclear testing even if the present Moscow talks among the United States, Britain and Russia lead to a partial test ban.

La Nation says: "France rejoices, of course, with all humanity, at all which can contribute to the defense and peace. However, an agreement to which she is not a party does not concern her."

"As the two giants have carried out the innumerable and even superfluous tests of which one is aware, France cannot stop here at a word of command."

"The first reason for this is that she takes orders from nobody. The second is that she does not intend to build a force capable of destroying the population of two or three worlds."

"France simply wants to possess the arm of the century, and thus no doubt enable a Europe eventually joined by Britain to possess it also."

Treaty Ready

(Times News Services)

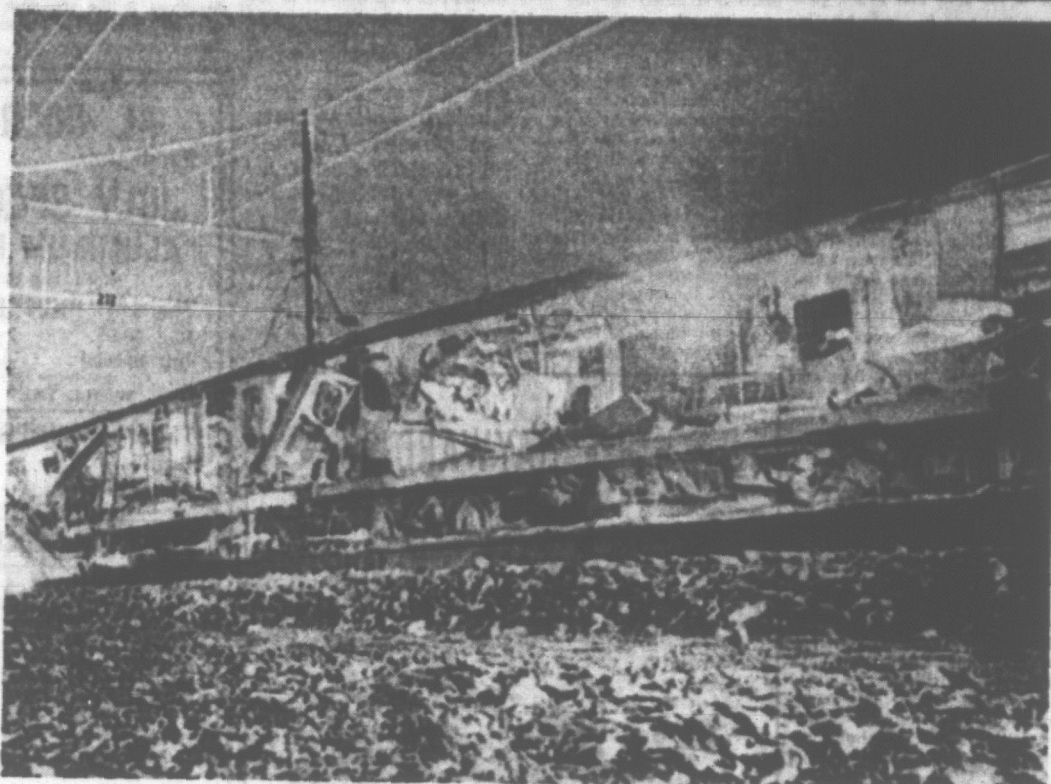

MOSCOW — An East-West treaty to outlaw nuclear tests above the ground was reported completed today and probably will be initiated Thursday.

Efforts to get the agreement today apparently were held up by prolonged discussions over the non-aggression pact wanted by the Russians but which cannot be negotiated by the British and U.S. delegations here.

Earlier, Premier Nikita Khrushchev said a "radical turn toward a better international climate" could result from signing the agreement.

But Khrushchev, as quoted by the Soviet news agency Tass, again tied the test ban closely to a non-aggression pact between NATO and the Communist bloc, although he did not specifically say the world could not have one without the other.

The premier's views were in a letter to the heads of state of the 30 African countries which took part in the Addis Ababa conference in May.

SIDES RIPPED OFF TRAIN IN CRASH

Sideswiping a diesel engine three miles from Newark, N.J. sides were torn off three passenger cars of Port Authority Trans Hudson line train from New York early today. Two passengers were killed and 28 others injured. The diesel, with 10 cars coupled behind, was stopped on a spur track but stuck out into the path of the main line, police reported. (AP Wirephoto)

FROM WARD

Streetwalker Accepted Deal

LONDON (UPI)—A bleached blonde street walker testified today that Dr. Stephen Ward picked her up one night in his white sports car and told her he could introduce her to a better class of people.

Eight minutes later she had accepted Ward's proposition, she said, and was installed in the bedroom of his apartment. The testimony was offered at Ward's morals trial by Vicki Barrett, 20, who has a police record as a convicted prostitute.

Vicki and other witnesses at today's session of the trial of the society osteopath and artist told a sordid story of the goings-on at his flat and of the diversions sought by some members of his social set.

Another prosecution witness testified that police threatened to take her young sister and her baby from her unless she provided evidence against Ward.

Margaret (Ronna) Ricardo, an admitted prostitute, repeated her assertion—first made near the close of Tuesday's session—that she lied on the stand at Ward's preliminary hearing and in a statement to the police because of police pressure.

GOING TO CLUB

Miss Barrett testified that she was on her way to a club shortly after midnight one night when Ward's white Jaguar slipped off beside her and he stepped out.

"He asked if I would like to go to a party," she said. "I said 'No, I don't like parties.' He said it wasn't a party. He had just got a few friends with their wives and girl friends and he wanted a girl to have conversation with."

"He said he would give me some money if I stayed a few hours."

After being assured he was interested only in conversation, she said, she got into his car but that "as we were driving to his flat he told what he wanted me to do."

"What was that?" asked prosecutor Mervyn Griffith-Jones.

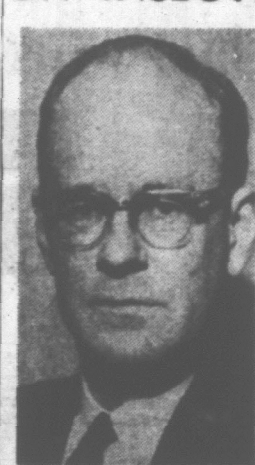

"He said he had a man in the flat who wanted to go with me."

Two Victorians Get Jail Terms

REGINA (CP)—Wayne Marshall Robertson, 28, of Victoria, was sentenced to three years in penitentiary and John Daniel Jones, 26, also of Victoria, was sentenced to two years Tuesday for breaking into a vault at a Regina farm equipment dealer's shop July 15 and stealing $85.

Robertson also received six months concurrent for being in possession of a wallet, identification papers and travellers' cheques belonging to a man in Lebanon, Ind.

FULL REPORT REQUESTED ON INSECTICIDE DEATH

... must reduce danger

Health Minister Eric Martin has asked for a full report on the recent death of a B.C. girl who drank insecticide.

The matter is being investigated by deputy health minister Dr. J. A. Taylor.

Mr. Martin said he would also talk to Agriculture Minister Frank Richter about the dangers of insecticides and weed killers which have become this year a matter of major concern across the North American continent.

While control and regulation might be the responsibility of the federal government, Mr. Martin said, "We will see if it isn't possible to cut down on the dangers."

A two-year-old Terrace girl died after drinking insecticide two weeks ago.

ART SHOW MUST CLOSE

LONDON (Reuters)—The local Holborn borough council has ordered the directors of a London art gallery to close vice defendant Stephen Ward's portrait exhibition.

A girl. He said the man would give him the money."

The prosecutor then asked what Ward would do with the money, and Vicki said Ward had told her that better clothes and a better address meant better clients.

Full Investigation Urged On Problems of the Aged

OTTAWA (CP)—The Senate was urged Tuesday to launch a study of the aged in Canada comparable with its penetrating examination of unemployment.

David Croll (L-Ontario) said it was time for an examination in depth of the whole aspect of problems of the aged and aging. His speech launched debate on the subject in the upper chamber. He suggested that a small staff lay the ground work for the 20-member special committee so that it could go right to work after Parliament's summer recess.

Senator Croll suggested five main principles be examined: the work and activity, housing, care and assistance for the aged; governmental aims in the field of voluntary social agency help; examination of the distance that modern methods have achieved from the old poor-house concept; ascertaining what Canada and other countries have done; and recommending ways and means to make greater progress.

Two main facts emerge, said Senator Croll, himself aged 63. It must be recognized that the state owes a special obligation to the senior citizens who have helped build the country and that these senior citizens increasingly are less able to provide essentials for themselves.

NAMES 'VITAL' AREAS
Employment, full health care, adequate pensions, housing and leisure were all vital.

The existing life expectancy of 71 would continue to rise. Persons aged 65 or more totalled 420,000 in 1921 and 1,391,000 in 1961. But the percentage of the 65-plus total population also was rising.

The senior citizen today needed a place in the world—

his own world—and this depended on federal and provincial help, voluntary agencies and a great deal of community effort, Senator Croll said.

Don't throw them a bribe of pension dollars before each election, he suggested. Respect for the elderly must be re-developed in an age when national leaders are, it seems, dedicated to youth and the pursuit of youth.

CANADA
GIVES AWAY MORE WHEAT

OTTAWA (UPI)—Trade Minister Mitchell Sharp today announced plans to provide under-developed nations with up to $40,000,000 a year in wheat and flour under Canada's foreign aid program.

The wheat and flour give-aways, in addition to this country's current foreign aid budget of about $55 million a year, would be provided to international organizations such as the world food bank and to individual nations facing a food shortage, Sharp said.

He said safeguards would be taken to avoid interference with normal commercial wheat markets.

Negro Despair Echoed at Church Rally

This is an account of a Negro church rally in Gadsden, Ala., June 27 at a time when Negroes were trying to regroup after setbacks in their drive for integration. Harold Morrison, CP Washington correspondent, was the only white man at the rally.

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer
"Oh, Lord, oh, Lord... we need You... Oh, yes, we need You... we ask You: Throw Your arms around Your children... say the segregationists are wrong... Oh, Lord... The voice was that of Willie Porter, 21-year-old Negro youth leader, but the words he uttered, first in a low moan, then rising into a haunting, broken sob, seemed to echo the despair, the hope and the prayer of millions of American Negroes in the Deep South.

In the steel-and-rubber city of Gadsden, 65 miles north of Birmingham, Ala., the battle for integration through street demonstrations had reached a crucial point. Using electric cattle-prodders and other means, police broke up sit-down and lie-down demonstrations in the streets, shops and hotels of this tightly segregated city.

Forward ranks of the demonstrators were smashed and militant Negro leaders and their most enthusiastic followers arrested. Gadsden jails were filled. You could hear the Negro inmates, including juveniles, singing spirituals as you walked by.

Now the remaining Negro leaders found the demonstrations were losing momentum. Their people talking of a new mass walk into the downtown shopping area which inevitably would lead to the jail cell, but

Extra Fishing Time Due to B.C. Strike

The Pacific trolling fleet resumed deep-sea fishing today while its net fishing counterparts miss out on a bumper catch of sockeye salmon falling to U.S. fishermen in Juan de Fuca Strait and Puget Sound.

U.S. salmon net fishermen were granted an extra 24 hours' fishing this week to compensate for the absence of a Canadian catch since United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union called a strike July 13.

They are taking sockeyes from the early and heavy Fraser River run in order to preserve the spawning grounds from destruction that would result from too large an escapement up-river.

The Fraser run has been so heavy the International Pacific Salmon Fisheries Commission, meeting Tuesday in Bellingham, granted the extra fishing time to Americans. An estimated 50,000 spawners have already made their way up-river, the commission was told.

Commission chairman Sen. Thomas Reid, one of the Canadian members, said American fishing time may be extended again, depending on the strike situation.

American seiners averaged 650 sockeye and 110 pinks, while gill netters averaged 120 sockeye and four pinks Monday.

Lloyd Royal, commission director, said there was no precedent for such an early abundance of fish.

'DISASTER' HITS ALASKA SALMON RUN

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Ernest Gruening (Dem.-Alaska) today asked President Kennedy to declare western Alaska a disaster area because of a greatly-reduced salmon run there this year.

The senator also urged efforts to improve treaty relations with Japan and other nations to conserve the salmon resource.

Prince Rupert Fishermen's Co-operative Association got its boats back to sea Tuesday after settling with the union.

The 3,000 members of the independent Pacific Trollers' Association are all expected to be back on the fishing grounds by Friday, when the first of their catch that began at dawn today will be landed in Seattle.

Co-operative Venture Formed

The association, headed by Dick Williams of Victoria, is circumventing the strike by forming a co-operative type venture to sell cohos and springs on the Seattle market at 32 cents a pound, an increase of two cents from what members were getting on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

The price follows agreement between American buyers and the Washington-Oregon trolling fleet, which is backing the Canadian trollers as long as they don't undersell the Americans, Mr. Williams said.

Since 75 per cent of the Canadian catch normally is sold on the American market, the co-operative arrangement simply eliminates the Canadian buyer for the duration of the strike.

The total west coast Canadian production of salmon for the fresh market now goes through one Seattle buyer instead of three major companies and a dozen small buyers along the B.C. coast.

"We went down there under impossible negotiating conditions and came out better than we were," Mr. Williams said.

He said if the strike is settled, the association would give its American buyer 48 hours' notice to terminate the sales agreement. The American agreement would then be a lever to better prices paid by Canadian buyers.

"If they are going to make this thing attractive, then they have got to pay the piper. But we'll be reasonable about it," Mr. Williams said, pointing out that they could quickly switch back to the Seattle market.

ROLLS OFF FERRY

Truck's Swim To Cost Some Dough

VANCOUVER (CP)—"Do you have a Sunbeam bread truck aboard?" Capt. Ted Wilson of the tug Island Challenger radioed the CPR ferry Princess of Vancouver as she came into her wharf here.

"Yes," replied the ferry. "Not any more," Capt. Wilson called back as he steered toward the truck which had burst through nylon rope barriers on the ferry's car deck and dropped into Vancouver Harbor.

The truck, buoyant because of its empty freight compartment, floated away from the tug. Eventually, however, the tug crew managed to get a line around it and towed it to the CPR dock where a crane pulled it out.

The CPR said the truck had jumped its chocks during a tight turn by the ferry and had rolled forward 50 feet before dropping over the stern.

Dock Talks Continue

VANCOUVER (CP)—A union official said today talks aimed at heading off a strike of West Coast longshoremen "are continuing daily."

But Watson Jones, president of Local 301, International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union (ILWU), said there has been no indication as yet as to any progress being made in the talks with the B.C. Shipping Federation.

Shipping Tie-Up

TORONTO (UPI)—Shipping operations in the port of Toronto again were paralyzed today by an inter-union dispute involving rival factions of the 500-member Toronto local of the International Longshoremen's Association.

MASSENA, N.Y. (UPI)—The St. Lawrence Seaway, struggling to meet financial obligations, recorded the highest cargo tonnage during June and officials predicted the best year in the waterway's history.

U.S. and Canadian officials said yesterday the seaway, in its fifth season, handled 4,196,000 cargo tons during June, compared with the previous high of 3,889,000 in October of 1962.

The figures released show a 14.7 per cent increase during the April-June period over last year. Cargo carried reached 9,761,000 this year compared with 8,580,000.

RESULT OF U.S. STRIKE

Interior Sawmills Reaping Harvest

VANCOUVER (CP)—Sawmills in the B.C. interior are working at top speed to capitalize on a lumber strike in the United States Pacific Northwest.

The strike at six major lumber and plywood producers in Washington, Oregon and California has left nearly 25 per cent of plywood capacity and 10 per cent of softwood lumber facilities in the U.S. idle.

Prices have gone up in the U.S. as a result of the strike, but not nearly as much as they might have had it not been for Canadian exports. Two-by-four fir is selling at $72 a thousand, up from $68 in early June.

Plywood price increases have been bigger. Quarter-inch-thick sanded plywood now commands $85 a thousand square feet, a full $25 more than prior to the strike.

Main reason for the difference in the increases is the normally prohibitive 20-per-cent import duty on plywood in the U.S.

Up to now, Canadian firms have largely refrained from plywood exports. But R. Widman, president of Cooper-Widman, Ltd., a wholesale lumber brokerage, said the price is now almost up to the point where exports will be economically feasible.

Mineral Resources Program Launched

By JOHN E. BIRD
OTTAWA (CP)—The Geological Survey of Canada has launched a $2,500,000 field program for 1963 designed to aid development of Canada's mineral resources.

Field parties will operate in all 10 provinces, the Yukon and Northwest Territories.

Although reconnaissance investigations account for more than half the cost of the program, a wide range of other activities includes geophysical, geochemical, groundwater, bedrock, surface and mineral deposit studies, marine and engineering geology.

Making up the program's 107 field parties are some 100 staff geologists and 280 summer employees, mostly university geology students.

One of the highlights of the program is the survey's $300,000 role in the International Upper Mantle Project, an investigation of the earth's layer below the crust. This involves the drilling of two 5,000-foot holes in the Coppermine River area of the Northwest Territories to obtain core samples.

TO MAP MOUNTAINS
Another highlight is an experimental survey on Vancouver Island in co-operation with the British Columbia government to develop efficient and economical means of making aeromagnetic surveys over mountainous regions.

Geochemical and surface geological studies will be conducted to develop new techniques in the search for ore deposits in Ontario's Kirkland Lake-Larder Lake gold mining district.

A start will be made on the reconnaissance geological mapping of B.C. coast mountains, one of North America's most difficult regions in which to operate.

The operation in B.C. this year will be mostly seaborne. The party will use specially-developed collapsible craft operating from a mother ship to land at the base of the mountain ranges.

Field parties operating in Arctic terrain will make extensive use this year of helicopters and fixed-winged aircraft and a variety of land and water transport.

Total sales in the January-May period increased 5.8 per cent in volume to 292,410 units from 276,457 in the first four months of 1962 and 9.7 per cent in retail value to $914,439,000 from $833,745,000.

Superpack Corp. Profits Increase

TORONTO (CP)—Superpack Corporation Ltd., manufacturers and distributors of automatic vending machines in international markets, had net profit in the six months ended May 31 of $182,979 or 37 cents a share compared with $155,212 and 31 cents in the corresponding period last year.

Sales were $4,071,929 compared with $2,918,815. The six-month report says volume for the full fiscal year is expected to substantially exceed the gross sales of $7,000,064 in the last fiscal year.

Canadian Textile Firms Gained More of Market

MONTREAL (CP)—The primary textiles institute says the total Canadian market for all forms of cotton fabrics in 1962 was 663,000,000 square yards, up from 659,000,000 square yards in 1961.

The textile industry also increased its share of the domestic market, as shipments increased to 367,000,000 square yards in 1961. At the same time, imports dropped to 318,000,000 square yards from 337,000,000 in 1961.

The U.S. remained the largest supplier of cotton fabrics to Canada. Imports of U.S. cotton textiles in 1962 were 152,000,000 square yards, down from 179,000,000 square yards in 1961.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Crown Zellerbach Corp. says its sales went up four per cent to $298,079,000 for the first half of 1963 but net income of $7,930,000 was down by one per cent.

The paper and paperboard company blamed competitive conditions and a logging strike shutdown in the Pacific Northwest for the earnings decline.

Hospital Delay Blamed on Gov't

NANAIMO—A Nanaimo alderman has blamed the B.C. government for preventing the conversion of the old Nanaimo hospital into a chronic hospital.

Ald. John Cook, in a letter to city council, said the hospital board is powerless to go ahead with the conversion of the old hospital without Health Minister Eric Martin's approval and the assistance of the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service.

He said the board is prepared to proceed with converting the old hospital if matching government grants could be made available as promised.

He admitted the health minister had approved in principle the conversion of the old hospital. But, he added, many factors have changed since the earlier promises of conversion were made.

He said the most important change was the cost factor.

It would cost about $190,000 to renovate and improve the services in the building, he said.

NANAIMO—The flag problem has been settled in Nanaimo.

It started last week when

Murder Probe Help Asked By Mounties

NANAIMO (CP)—A team of RCMP investigators, apparently near a dead end in their investigation of a brutal lovers' lane double murder, Tuesday issued another appeal for public assistance.

Police have only one good clue to the vicious murders: An uncommon model of a semi-automatic .22-calibre rifle.

They appealed for public aid in finding the owner of the rifle, which has been established as the weapon that killed Diane Phipps, 19, a practical nurse, and her sweetheart, Les Dixon, 19.

The two had parked at Piper Lagoon, the local lovers' lane, in darkness last Oct. 16.

The murderer crept up to the car, shot Dixon twice in the back of the head and abducted Diane.

Police surmised that the man held the terrified girl with one hand as he drove eight miles through the Vancouver Island city to a point northwest of the city limits.

OFF ROAD

Somewhat — perhaps the girl jarred the steering wheel — the car struck a rock. At that spot, Diane was shot between the eyes.

Apparently unsatisfied that the girl was dead, the man beat her savagely with a rock, covered her body with dirt and parts of an old car and drove north to Long Lake.

There, he threw the Model 63 Winchester rifle into the water and disappeared.

Squads of RCMP conducted hundreds of investigations in a search for the killer. Then, last March 29, a boy skating on the ice of Long Lake found the rifle.

1940 MODEL

Efforts to trace the owner have failed. The rifle was made in 1940 and sold in 1942. It bears the serial number 41649A.

An RCMP spokesman said the force had no desire to alarm the public, but the possibility could not be ruled out that a man capable of such a brutal murder might kill again.

He said RCMP would interview anyone — in confidence, if desired — anywhere in Canada provided they felt they had some information to contribute to the investigation, particularly the ownership of the rifle.

150 Campers Swingalong With Singer

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

SHAWNIGAN LAKE—People of all ages from eight to 80 are learning to "relax through singing" this week at a camp organized by provincial archivist Willard Ireland.

But the leader of this relaxation movement is internationally-known Negro singer Charles King who conducts daily sing-songs in the "arm-swinging style of a crusading missionary."

Sometimes he has his followers leaping up and down as they sing rousing Negro spirituals; at others he has them crooning softly in two-part harmony—or drawing deep breaths to get the tension out of their bodies.

'FARTHEST OUT'

Mr. King travels all over the United States applying these methods to high school children. Now, with his wife, Allie, and their two adopted daughters, Maria, 9, and Yvonne, 10, he is relaxing himself at "Camp Farthest Out", a week-long rally held by the lakeside in the Strathcona Lodge School for Girls.

Among the 150 campers are many visitors from the United States, including veteran Elmer Almor and his family from East Hartford, Connecticut.

ALL OVER U.S.

"We have camps like this all over the U.S.," Mr. Almor said, "but, as we wanted to visit Western Canada, we decided to join this group."

"Look around you at any of the people here and you'll see what it has done for them."

The campers certainly look happy and relaxed. There is singing at every meal, with lots of lively back chat between chairman Willard Ireland and his fellow campers, continuous laughter and a ready exchange of light-hearted leg-pulling.

Between meals and singing rallies, the campers go hiking around the lake, enjoy swimming and boating or play tennis and badminton.

SIDNEY VOTES TUESDAY ON BORDER EXTENSION

SIDNEY—Owner-electors of Sidney will vote Tuesday on a boundary extension for the village municipality.

The extension would add a half-block to the southern boundary, squaring of the western boundary along East Saanich Road, and a large addition to the north including Roberts Point, Armstrong Point and a portion of Mill Point.

Residents in the surrounding area have petitioned council to be included in the village so sanitary facilities can be improved.

68 Youngsters Learn to Swim

GANGES—A total of 68 children, ranging in age from 4 to 13 years, are receiving swimming instruction at Deacon's Beach, Sunset Drive, and at Fulford Harbor.

The classes, sponsored by the Salt Spring Island Recreation Commission, will continue until Aug. 2. Mrs. Dennis Deacon is instructor.

RCAF Adds Voodoos, Sub Kill, Rescue Show to Golden Hawks Thriller

The biggest aerial show ever staged here will be seen off the Beacon Hill waterfront Aug. 16, the RCAF announced today.

Featured in the sky-filling spectacle will be the Golden Hawks, one of the finest jet-aerobatic teams in the world; the solo stunting of the Red Knight; a flypast by super-sonic CF-101 Voodoos from Comox; a water-rescue demonstration, and an anti-submarine warfare exercise carried out by a Canadian Maritime Command patrol aircraft.

As ground support for the big aerial show, the 56-piece band of the RCAF training command, based at Edmonton, will stage two performances in the Beacon Hill bandshell.

First concert will be at 11 p.m., and a second at 7 p.m. The air portion of Air Force Day will start at 1:30 p.m., with two Voodoos from 409 Interceptor Squadron, RCAF Station Comox, screaming down the length of the Dallas Road waterfront.

Following the flypast, members of the Search and Rescue School at RCAF Station Vancouver will demonstrate a water-to-air rescue off Finlayson Point, using an Albatross aircraft and a Vertol H-21 helicopter. The aircraft are attached to 121 Communications and Rescue Flight, on 24-hour call for operations anywhere in B.C.

Next on the program will be a simulated hunt-and-kill operation against an "enemy" submarine, ending with the dropping of depth charges.

Following the ASW exercise, the Red Knight—Flying Officer J. W. (Bud) Morin, a flying instructor at Portage la Prairie—who will fly his bright red T-33 Silver Star jet trainer through intricate aerobatics.

His 12-minute show begins with a roll off the top of a loop. Other manoeuvres include a Cuban-eight; clover leaf; hesitation, rharb and vertical rolls; loops and inverted flying.

The famed Golden Hawks will close the show—and send the anticipated crowd of thousands home gasping with wonder—with a 40-minute display in their F-86 Sabre jets.

The team of seven will perform a unique sequence of tight formation flying plus high-speed solo aerobatics.

Formed in 1959 to observe the 35th anniversary of the RCAF and the 50th anniversary of powered flight in Canada, the Golden Hawks have given more than 250 performances before an estimated 13,000,000 spectators in Canada and the U.S.

The Aug. 16 show in Victoria will be repeated at RCAF Station Comox Aug. 17, designated as Comox Day.

Arthur Mayse

The sport fisherman who boosts his income by a licensed tapping of the salmon runs has never been popular among the commercials. He, on the other hand, sees no reason why he shouldn't peddle his catch, especially since many a tall-poled troller's master supplements his take with a winter job ashore.

In this dispute, I'm forced to the conclusion that the troller-man, if not the purse seiner and night-fishing gill netter, has a valid case.

His investment in boat and gear is heavy. His job is tough, hazardous, and in these years of drastic competition, increasingly speculative. He needs the protection of a licensing system which will guard his livelihood from casual invasion by the man whose year-round living is assured.

At the same time, I don't think it would be fair to bar the seasonal hand from bridging workless months by selling his catch.

The right to do so is traditional on the British Columbia coast. There are prosperous men in Victoria today who once kept themselves off the relief rolls by rowboat fishing.

From early-summer blue-back season through to the autumn rains, the rowboat fishermen used to follow the salmon among the islands of the Gulf. Their camps ranged from tent setups for the plutocrats to the casual shelter of a driftwood hutch or a frayed tarp slung over poles.

Boats were what a man could afford. Ideally, he equipped himself with a narrow, double-ended "carvel" which slipped easily through the water. In a pinch, though, he'd settle for any beatup cabbage crate which would keep him afloat.

His gear varied with the locality. Spoons, spinners, and even the big, gay polar-hair flies we call bucktails were used on occasion. But herring minnows or needle-fish were the standard bait, and from Salt Spring clear up to the Seymours, the mark of the handliner was the needletoothed herring rake jutting past his craft's stem.

A typical lower coast combination was a heavily-weighted "leg-line" for deep-running spring salmon, and for coho, a Calcutta cane pole to which was taped a wooden Nottingham reel.

When you tagged a fish, you leaned back on the supple pole and blocked him in as fast as you could grind the reel handles. Bluebacks, you swung

Ski Contest Warmup Knockout Affair

By IAIN HUNTER

All this week members of Victoria Aqua Ski Club are literally knocking themselves out on the surface of Shawnigan Lake.

They are determined to put on a good show for spectators at the B.C. Open waterskiing championships this weekend.

Champion skiers from all over Canada and the U.S. will take part in the meet which will be run from Mountain View Lodge on the east side of the lake Saturday and Sunday.

Although the out-of-towners are masters of trick skiing,

THE WHEELS OF JUSTICE SPUN FAST

Three hours after Stanley J. Petne, 3252 Irma, had his licence suspended Tuesday he was back in magistrate's court charged with driving while disqualified.

Magistrate William Ostler sentenced him to 10 days in jail saying it was "hard to imagine more contemptuous conduct."

Constable Thomas Anthony was in court when the magistrate disqualified Petne from driving for a speeding offence. Then, when the officer was returning from the Saanich police station to the city, he saw Petne driving along Douglas St.

Cons. Anthony obtained a warrant and arrested Petne at his home.

Cons. Anthony told the court both he and Constable Albert Harwood had advised Petne after his licence was withdrawn that "whatever you do, don't drive your car."

100-Year-Old Survives Car Crash

A 100-year-old Chinese woman, Mrs. J. Wong, 954 Mason, was the only person who escaped unhurt in a two-car collision at Mills Road and the Old Pat Bay Highway Tuesday afternoon.

Seven others went to hospital and one of them, Mrs. Nellie Stent, of West Summerland, B.C., was seriously hurt. She is reported to be in slightly improved condition today at Rest Haven Hospital.

Mrs. Stent was with her two children in a car driven by her husband, Herbert, when it was in collision with a car driven by Miss Eunice Peters, 1120 Pembroke.

The Stents were proceeding south on McDonald to Victoria at the start of their holidays. Mr. Stent received a head cut and the two Stent children, Alan 12, and Peter, 10, were also slightly hurt. All were released from hospital after treatment.

Miss Peters and one of her passengers, Mrs. Olive Rogers, of North Vancouver, are reported in satisfactory condition at Rest Haven Hospital.

Another passenger, Miss Mary Baxter, 956 Fairfield, is in good condition at St. Joseph's Hospital. The fourth passenger was Mrs. Wong.

70 California Square Dancers Coming Aug. 18

Seventy southern California square dancers will arrive here Aug. 18 via ferry from Port Angeles.

The dancers will bring letters of friendship and goodwill to Premier Bennett and Mayor R. B. Wilson from California Governor Edmund Brown and Mayor Yorty of Los Angeles.

In the group will be a team of teen-aged exhibition and precision square dancers, the Dudes and Dolls of San Fernando Valley, who have represented their state at dance functions throughout the U.S.

They expect to land at about 6 p.m., and will hold a dance with Victorians at Esquimalt Junior High School that evening.

Driver Fined $165 After Hit-Run Crash

A man convicted of criminal negligence three years ago, and impaired driving earlier this year, was fined a total of $165 for two more motoring offences when he appeared in city police court today.

Edgar L. Fenton, Drake Hotel, pleaded guilty to careless driving and failing to remain at the scene of an accident.

He drove into the rear of a stopped car on Esquimalt Road and the impact knocked it into the rear of another car stopped ahead of it.

Fenton left the scene but was trailed by an eyewitness. When arrested on Fort St. he told police the brakes on his car had failed.

Police checked the brakes and found them in good working condition.

'Only the Best' Good Enough For Burglars

Thieves who broke into Meadwell's Radio & Electric store at 2651 Douglas Street overnight Tuesday, "took only the best items in the store" according to Mrs. Edith Meadwell.

Total value of the missing articles is estimated at $1,000. Entry was gained by knocking out a panel in a rear door.

Missing from the store are seven mantle radios, nine transistor radios, a tape recorder and a portable television set.

'Black Market' In Milk

A "black market" in milk production quotas threatens the whole dairy economy of B.C., Agriculture Minister Frank Richter said today.

He said people are making "a fast buck" by trading quotas on fluid milk, the most lucrative of dairy products.

"I'm highly disturbed," Mr. Richter said.

"It wasn't intended that quotas should become a trading commodity."

"The situation is reaching serious proportions in some areas."

Two Hearings On Zoning Set Thursday

Two important public hearings are scheduled for Thursday's city council session.

Turnout at the hearings will show whether there is support or opposition for new regulations governing "garden apartment" construction and a proposed multi-million-dollar high-rise apartment and marina complex at West Bay, off Esquimalt Road at Maitland.

Bylaws establishing the garden apartment regulations—aimed at preventing overdevelopment of small sites—and rezoning the West Bay site from single family to high-rise apartment classification will be introduced at the same time.

Also slated for introduction are bylaws to create an extension of Rose Street from its present terminus at Bay Street to the intersection of Queens and Blanshard, and to provide expropriation proceedings for acquisition of some of the needed land.

FARMERS GET LESS

As a result, he said, farmers are getting less money for their milk.

Milk production has gone up 11 per cent in the past year, while consumption is hardly changed. In fact consumption has dropped slightly more than 1 per cent over the past month.

Dairy farmers get a fixed quota on the amount of fluid milk they may sell. The rest of their production goes to other dairy products, such as butter, at lower prices.

Mr. Richter said that in the Fraser Valley fluid milk accounts for an average of 49 to 51 per cent of total production; in the interior it is 77 per cent; on Vancouver Island it is about 87 per cent.

The idea of the Milk Industries Act, he said, is to equalize quotas, not to allow a build-up of huge quotas in the hands of a few farmers.

He and officials of the B.C. Milk Control Board are currently trying to come up with corrective action that will result in no undue hardship, he added.

THEY PERSIST

He said farmers have been told to stop, but "it is still going on."

What is happening is this: Traders pay up to $20 a pound for a fluid milk quota which actually brings in somewhere between four and six cents a pound. They also buy up a farmer's herd, then they sell the herd, perhaps to a butcher, but retain the quota, boosting the milk production of their own herd.

"To my mind it is neither feasible nor economic to produce only manufacturing milk in B.C.," Mr. Richter said. "I believe in producing only what the market can take."

Possible actions under consideration include: cutting off quotas until consumption warrants room for a boost; tying transfer of quotas to ownership of land; calling in all quotas for reallocation in the event of a sale.

Central Saanich's new municipal clerk, F. B. Durrand, will assume his duties at the municipal office on Sept. 1.

Mr. Durrand is presently assistant city clerk at Revelstoke.

He succeeds Donald S. Wood who has resigned due to ill health. Duties of the municipal clerk will be carried out by Mrs. J. E. Tanner for the interim period.

British Columbia will be featured at tonight's Victoria Film Festival showing in Beacon Hill Park.

Five documentaries to be shown are City of Many Faces, Indian Days, Rogers Pass, Saga of the Sudburies, and Cattle Ranch.

An English tourist injured in an accident on Pat Bay Highway last Friday is still in critical condition.

Mrs. Mary Holden of Lancashire, England, was originally taken to Resthaven Hospital. She has now been moved to Royal Jubilee Hospital.

B.C.'s chief public health engineer is resigning to take a job in Washington.

Reginald Bowering, head of the division of public health engineering for 23 years, leaves next month.

He is joining the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development.

He will be sanitary engineer for its technical services division.

The bank provides financial assistance for worthy projects around the world.

HMCS Skeena, destroyer attached to the Second Canadian Escort Squadron, broke off exercise in local waters Tuesday due to a minor defect in the steering mechanism.

Working with HMCS Fraser, Margaree, and Mackenzie, the Skeena was scheduled to return Aug. 2. The other ships will remain out until that date.

Dr. Virginia Weimar, research scientist at the University of Oregon medical school, will speak in Victoria Truth Centre, 1201 Fort Street, Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

Thomas Obee, 651 Grenville, who earlier was convicted of impaired driving, admitted in city magistrate's court today that he had been convicted of a similar offence before.

At two previous hearings Obee refused to admit his first conviction.

Magistrate William Ostler sentenced Obee to 14 days in jail and suspended his driving licence.

Steady annual improvement of Bay Street will be given another push Thursday in four proposed local improvement bylaws to install sidewalks at a total cost of $4,805.

If adopted by city council the bylaws, requiring fronting ratepayers to provide $3,399 of the sum, will authorize construction of sidewalks on the north side of Bay between Graham and Prior, Quadra and Fifth, Cedar Hill and Fernwood, and a portion near Scott Street.

Ernest E. Dunstan, 80 San Jose, will be tried in city magistrate's court Aug. 1 on a charge of being in possession of diamond rings stolen from Birk's jewellers in a smash-and-grab raid.

The accused originally elected trial in a higher court. This morning in city magistrate's court he changed his election.

Fifth in the series of nine gospel services at the bandshell, Beacon Hill Park, will be held Sunday at 7 p.m.

It will be in charge of Centennial United Church, with Rev. Dr. S. J. Parsons delivering the gospel message. The services are sponsored by the Victoria committee, Christian Business Men's Committee International.

Cliff Johnson, the club's best jumper, demonstrated his technique on home-made skis at the six-foot ramp.

95-FOOT JUMP

Swooping on to the ramp at 50 to 60 mph, he has jumped a clear 95 feet, and this weekend intended reaching the 100-foot mark.

But Tuesday his new skis stuck on the dry surface of the ramp and he came down at full speed upside down, knocking himself unconscious.

Minutes later he soared again off the ramp which had been watered down. This time he landed on his feet.

Five club members also have prepared a human pyramid for the show Saturday and Sunday.

'GREAT SPIRIT LINGERS' SAYS ENV OY

Gandhi's Influence Still Felt

The late Mohandas Gandhi, assassinated in 1948, is directly responsible for the emancipation of India's women, Chandra Shekhar Jha, Indian high commissioner to Canada, said here today.

The women of India now get the vote at 21 and have full rights of inheritance and divorce.

"For the first time in our history they have equal rights with men," said the soft-voiced Mr. Jha, interviewed during a brief stay with Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. George Pearkes at Government House.

"Mr. Gandhi accomplished this and many other remarkable reforms, such as abolition of Untouchability."

STILL FELT

"Today I could be sent to jail if I called anyone an Untouchable, for this reform was written into our constitution one year after his death. His great spirit lingers and is felt throughout the land."

made absolute until two years after it is granted.

He said the 20th-Century Fox film of Gandhi's assassination has not yet been shown in India for fear it would stir up old hatreds, but Mr. Jha saw it in Ottawa and found it "technically good."

"FORCE WITH FORCE"

"I met Mr. Gandhi briefly during his last fast, before he was murdered," the high commissioner said. "There was a tremendous sadness in his eyes and I think he knew the end was near. But his faith made it impossible for him to meet force with force."

"He died in that faith but his influence continues."

Visiting Western Canada for the first time, Mr. Jha and his beautiful wife are tremendously impressed by British Columbia and its potentialities.

"Alas, we cannot buy as much from Canada as we would wish because of our limited foreign exchange currency," the high commissioner said.

"From B.C. we import mainly metals, minerals, newsprint and wood pulp."

"From India, B.C. and Canada import huge quantities of tea, with carpets, silks and diesel engines. We are now interested in buying nuclear reactors of the Candu type from Canada."

Mr. Jha said conditions among India's 450,000,000 people, of many different religions and creeds, are comparatively peaceful, "but it is not in mortals to live in absolute peace."

Before his appointment as high commissioner, Mr. Jha was India's ambassador to the United Nations for nearly four years.

"It is fascinating work," he said, "but always a great strain on the constitution. You need cast-iron nerves and a philosophical outlook to outlive the tensions and anxieties."

This afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Jha were visiting Duncan before returning to Ottawa.

Richardson-Savannah Vows Heard in St. John's Church

Canon A. J. Williams officiated at the afternoon ceremony in St. John's Anglican Church that united Yvonne Frances Savannah and Dr. Eric Harvey Richardson.

White daisies, pink roses and carnations decorated the church for the occasion. David Fisher of the Victoria Symphony Orchestra gave a trumpet solo during the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. F. E. Willis, 921 1/2 Fort Street, and the late Lieut. Willis. Groom's parents are Dr. and Mrs. S. R. Richardson, 4497 Arsen Place.

Robert E. Burns, an old family friend, gave the bride in marriage. They entered the church to the strains of Purcell's Wedding March. Lace and diamante trim enhanced the scalloped neckline and hem of the bride's short-length dress of pink satin. The toning veil misted from three pink roses. Pink Rapture roses were in her sheaf bouquet. For jewelry the bride chose an heirloom necklace of pearls and amethysts and culture-pearl earrings, gift of the groom.

Mrs. David Johnson, Seattle, was matron of honor in a short train of pink-peau de sole, trimmed with a fabric rose at the waistline. A tiny pink veil skirted her peau de sole veil box. Pink and white carnations were in her colonial bouquet.

Full-skirted dresses of blue organdy and matching headbands were worn by bridesmaids, the Misses Anne and Jane Savannah and three-year-old flower girl, Susy Hempson, San Salvador. All carried tiny colonial bouquets of pink carnations.

William Graham was best man and ushering guests were David Johnson, Seattle; E. J. Hempson, San Salvador; Dr.

Patrick Laundry, Vancouver, and the groom's brother, Dr. Alan Richardson, Prince George.

Hugh Graham proposed the toast to the bride at a reception in Olde England Inn. Other out-of-town guests were Mrs. Hempson, San Salvador, and Mrs. Laundry, Vancouver. Leaving on a honeymoon trip to Harrison Hot Springs, Banff and Lake Louise, the bride donned an Italian beige knit suit, trimmed in brown; toning model straw hat and accessories and brown and yellow corsage.

Murder Probe Help Asked By Mounties

NANAIMO (CP)—A team of RCMP investigators, apparently near a dead end in their investigation of a brutal lovers' lane double murder, Tuesday issued another appeal for public assistance.

Police have only one good clue to the vicious murders: An uncommon model of a semi-automatic 22-calibre rifle.

They appealed for public aid in finding the owner of the rifle, which has been established as the weapon that killed Diane Phipps, 19, a practical nurse, and her sweetheart, Les Dixon, 19.

The two had parked at Piper Lagoon, the local lovers' lane, in darkness last Oct. 16.

The murderer crept up to the car, shot Dixon twice in the back of the head and abducted Diane.

Police surmised that the man held the terrified girl with one hand as he drove eight miles through the Vancouver Island city to a point northwest of the city limits.

OFF ROAD

Somehow — perhaps the girl jarred the steering wheel — the car struck a rock. At that spot, Diane was shot between the eyes.

Apparently unsatisfied that the girl was dead, the man beat her savagely with a rock, covered her body with dirt and parts of an old car and drove north to Long Lake.

There, he threw the Model 63 Winchester rifle into the water and disappeared.

Squads of RCMP conducted hundreds of investigations in a search for the killer. Then, last March 29, a boy skating on the ice of Long Lake found the rifle.

1940 MODEL

Efforts to trace the owner have failed. The rifle was made in 1940 and sold in 1942. It bears the serial number 41649A.

An RCMP spokesman said the force had no desire to alarm the public, but the possibility could not be ruled out that a man capable of such a brutal murder might kill again.

He said RCMP would interview anyone — in confidence, if desired — anywhere in Canada provided they felt they had some information to contribute to the investigation, particularly the ownership of the rifle.

had just got a few friends with their wives and girl friends and he wanted a girl to have conversation with.

"He said he would give me some money if I stayed a few hours."

After being assured he was interested only in conversation, she said, she got into his car but that "as we were driving to his flat he told what he wanted me to do."

"What was that?" asked prosecutor Mervyn Griffith-Jones.

"He said he had a man in the flat who wanted to go with a girl. He said the man would give him the money."

The prosecutor then asked what Ward would do with the money, and Vicki said Ward had told her that better clothes and a better address meant better clients.

Two Victorians Get Jail Terms

REGINA (CP)—Wayne Marshall Robertson, 28, of Victoria, was sentenced to three years in penitentiary and John Daniel Jones, 26, also of Victoria, was sentenced to two years Tuesday for breaking into a vault at a Regina farm equipment dealer's shop July 15 and stealing $85.

Robertson also received six months concurrent for being in possession of a wallet, identification papers and travellers' cheques belonging to a man in Lebanon, Ind.
